ADAMS TESTIFIES GULLATT'S 'LOAN' SWAYED PURCHASE

Commissioner Recalls Remark That Land Was Worth Amount of Mortgage; Defense Plea Fails

An alleged fake loan of $7,445 on 80 acres of the Dixie Lakes park influenced Fulton commissioners to pay that much for the property in 1937, Dr. Charles R. Adams, county commissioner, testified late yesterday in the trial of C. Homer Gullatt, county tax assessor, who is charged with cheating and swindling the county in the deal.

Adams, the state's third witness in the slow-moving trial, added that the purchase of the park from Gullatt was the only instance he knew in which the county bought land without having it appraised by the Atlanta Real Estate Board.

He added, however, on cross-examination, that he believed the park property was worth the amount paid for it and still is.

State's Charges. The state contends that the county commission bought the Gullatt property for $7,445 because of an apparent outstanding loan deed against the property for that amount.

Adams' testimony followed the appearance of Guy Smith, president of the Real Estate Loan Company, who testified that although the loan deed was made to his company, signed by him and later transferred back to Gullatt, not a dime passed between himself and Gullatt in the deal.

"I did not give him any money and he did not expect any," Smith asserted.

Expert Testifies. Jones H. Ewing, prominent Atlanta real estate man, was land value expert for the state, being the last witness of the first day.

"I'd say the property sold to the county is worth no more than $25 an acre and is unsuited for park purposes," he testified. The state contends the real value of the land is about $4,000, $3,445 less than the county paid for it. Ewing inspected the land in 1938, a year after the sale.

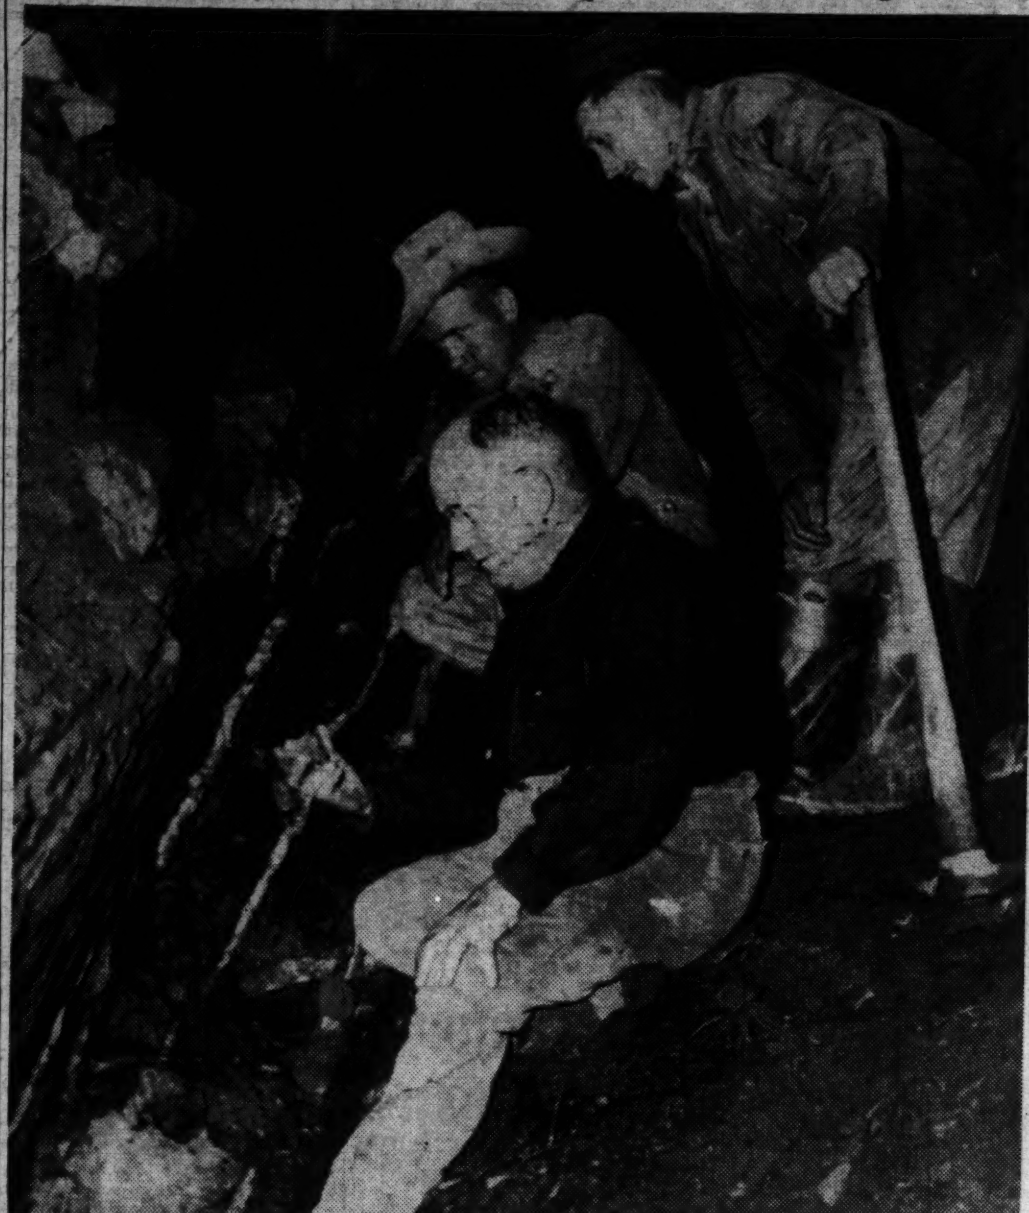

Demurrers Overruled.

The state won the first point in the trial yesterday morning as H. A. Allen, attorney for Gullatt, sought to throw the whole case out on general and specific demurrers, alleging that the indictment against Gullatt was not complete. Judge E. E. Pomeroy overruled all demurrers and the trial proceeded.

Only three witnesses, Adams, Smith and Frank Fling, clerk of Rich Vein Is Found in Century-Old Dahlonga Mine

Inside the century-old Calhoun gold mine near Dahlonga, Major Graham Dugas (front), veteran White county miner, examines the newly discovered vein, shown by the white lines, which he estimates will yield $60,000 in gold per ton of ore. The mine was first operated by South Carolina's Senator John C. Calhoun about 1828. With Dugas are Ralph Byers (back) and Fred Abbe (with pick), who work in the mine.

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—(Thurs- day)—(AP)—Soviet Russia made the sharpest press attack yet upon Finland today, accusing Finnish ruling circles of fostering an "anti-Soviet policy."

DAHLONGA, Ga., Nov. 15.—The magic word "gold" sprang into the gossip of this picturesque mountain town today and set the old-timers to reminiscing as operators of the historic Calhoun mine reported a new gold strike which is yielding are reportedly assayed at from $60,000 to $75,000 per ton.

The ore is being mined on the exact spot where white men first extracted the yellow metal in America more than 100 years ago. Some talk about it being comparable in richness (the ore that is visible) to the famous Comstock lode near Virginia City, Nev.

REICH BARS REPLY TO LOWLANDS' BID

No Formal Answer Will Be Made to Dutch, Belgian Peace Proposal.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Netherlands government tonight announced German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop had informed Netherlands and Belgian envoys in the name of Adolf Hitler that no formal reply would be made to the peace proposals of Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold.

Von Ribbentrop said the German government considered the brusque replies of the British and French governments had disposed of the matter.

The Netherlands government of Queen Wilhelmina will consult with the Belgian government regarding the possibility of further moves.

(The French reply that Germany must first repair "injustices which force has imposed on Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland," and the British answer that German proposals must "afford real prospect" of halting aggression in Europe, were accepted by the Germans, it was said, as closing the door to peace at this time.)

REMARK BY F. D. R. MAY INDICATE HE WON'T RUN AGAIN

President Stirs Speculation by Statement at Laying of Cornerstone of Jefferson Memorial.

By RICHARD L. TURNER.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt started another flurry of speculation about the third-term question today by an off-hand remark with which he prefaced an address at the laying of the cornerstone of the Thomas Jefferson memorial.

"This is the second occasion on which I have had the privilege of coming in an official capacity to this site," he said, "and I hope by January, 1941, I shall be able to come to the final dedication of the memorial itself."

Term Expires. Mr. Roosevelt's present term expires on the 20th of the month he mentioned and the dedication is scheduled for that month.

Whether his statement was a reiteration of the hope previously expressed, that he may retire from public life on that date, was the question that was raised.

If the statement was applicable to the third-term question—and men in Mr. Roosevelt's position do not lightly make assertions which contain political connotations—it may have meant that the President does not expect to run again.

But, at most, it was far from definite and left the third-term question still unanswered. However, the question has such a tremendous bearing upon the current political situation, that any dim light which may be cast upon it is considered of high importance in Washington.

The President spoke beneath a cloudless November sky, his speaker's platform framed in derricks and guy wires. A few hundred persons were present, standing below the President on a rough wooden platform or upon the muddy bank of the near-by tidal basin.

"It was in the field of political philosophy that Jefferson's significance is transcendent," the President said.

Average Opinion Best. "He lived as we live in the midst of a struggle between rule by the self-chosen individual or the self-appointed few, and rule by the franchise and approval of the many. He believed as we do that the average opinion of mankind is, in the long run, superior to the dictates of the self-chosen. During all the years that have followed Thomas Jefferson, the United States has expanded his philosophy into a greater achievement of security of the nation, security of the individual and national unity, than in any other part of the world."

"It may be that the conflict between the two forms of philosophy will continue for centuries to come, but we in the United States are more than ever satisfied with the republican form of government based on regularly recurring opportunities to our citizens to choose their leaders for themselves."

Murder Victim Named To Hear Killer's Case. VISALIA, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Emmett Nelson's name turned up on the jury list for a murder trial. But he won't sit on the jury—he was the man who was killed.

A registration clerk's error was blamed for the mixup.

City Seeks Costumes Of Rhett and Scarlett

Hartsfield Requests Characters' Garb, Props and Scenes of Old Atlanta for Museum at Cyclorama; Asks for Public's Reactions.

By LEE ROGERS.
Costumes worn by Rhett Butler, Scarlett O'Hara and other characters in "Gone With the Wind" ultimately will become museum pieces in Atlanta's Cyclorama if a plan advocated by Mayor Hartsfield last night gains sufficient public support.

The mayor announced he had requested David Selznick, producer of the epic film, to make the city of Atlanta a gift not only of costumes worn by the characters in the motion picture but of certain props and scenes of old Atlanta reconstructed for the movie. Of particular interest are the costumes worn by Rhett and Scarlett at the bazaar.

Representatives of Selznick here in connection with the premiere of the film said the more unique and valuable costumes in the $75,000 wardrobe most certainly would find their way to museums and that Atlanta was the logical place for them.

Word came from Hollywood last night that Selznick, unofficially, was in favor of the idea if the people of Atlanta expressed that desire. Whereupon, Mayor Hartsfield said he would like to know the public reaction.

The fabulously costly Hollywood-created "Gone With the Wind" costumes have had Atlanta's public reaction.

CHANGE EXPECTED TO TAKE PLACE ON DECEMBER 1

State Administrator Silent, Understood to Have Asked To Be Relieved Several Months Ago.

Resignation of Miss Gay B. Shepperson as state WPA administrator has been accepted by President Roosevelt, The Constitution learned last night. Her successor will be Robert L. MacDougall, technical director of the Atlanta Housing Authority since last December. Prior to his connection with the authority, MacDougall was Miss Shepperson's assistant administrator and director of operations.

Change December 1. Change is expected to be made on December 1 and White House confirmation of Miss Shepperson's resignation and MacDougall's appointment is expected later in the week.

It was understood that Miss Shepperson asked to be relieved of her duties several months ago. Last night she refused to comment on her resignation or disclose her future plans.

"I am very sorry," she said, "but I can make no statement at this time. Any announcement will have to come from Washington."

A native Virginian, Miss Shepperson began her professional life as a school teacher, went into social service work six years later, and built a national reputation along that line. Recently hers has been the responsibility of administering between thirteen and fourteen million dollars of federal funds each year for Georgia work relief.

Like Miss Shepperson, both MacDougall and Malcolm Miller, southeastern regional WPA director, refused comment on the change until official announcement had been made in Washington.

Born in Campbell.

Born in old Campbell county, MacDougall is a graduate of Georgia Tech, class of 1924. Except for his 11 months with the house-

LADY DIANA MANNERS.

British Actress 'Was Touched Very Deeply' by 'Gone With the Wind.'

By BETTY MATHIS.
She is very beautiful, tall and blond and queenly in her bearing. She is considered England's best dressed woman, yet her clothes are simple, well tailored and casually worn, as though they were of secondary importance.

And despite the fact that as Lady Diana Manners she is known the world over as one of England's outstanding contributions to the theatrical world, there is nothing artificial or up-stage about her. Rather, she is perfectly happy and eager to put herself into the background, and be simply Mrs. Alfred Duff Cooper, wife of a former first lord of the British admiralty. She wants to talk about her husband and her home, not about the triumphs she has had both on stage and screen.

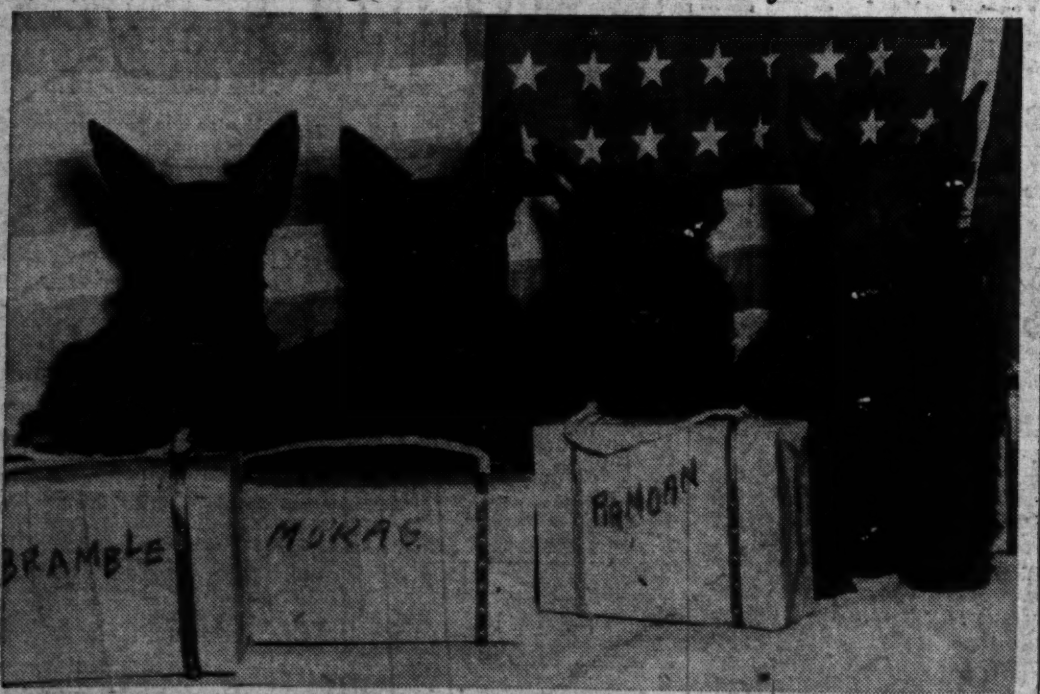

Lady Diana was dressed yesterday morning in a dark blue wool suit, with plaited skirt and buttoned-up jacket. She wore a blue and white print silk blouse. A blue felt sports hat. Blue suede walking shoes completed the costume. As she talked about her room she fingered her ear clips, exquisite clusters of pearls.

She has a flawless complexion and she used make-up sparingly—probably because she doesn't need it. Her eyes are a clear blue, very expressive. Her hands—beautiful and very white. She uses them to emphasize the points she makes in conversation.

Her voice is very deep and she

LOSING WIRE NEWS ON RACING RESULTS MAY RUIN BOOKIES

When U. S. Halted Vast Annenberg Network
Hundreds of Betting
Rooms Were Isolated.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Bookmakers in all sections of the nation were cut off M. L. Annenberg's vast racing news network tonight.

The personnel of the Nationwide News Service, which for years had transmitted race entries, odds, running accounts, results, and payoff prices from tracks to thousands of betting rooms, was instructed to cease operations after the final flash on the final race of the day had been dispatched.

Abandonment of the business was ordered by Annenberg, dominant figure in the turf information empire, because of government opposition.

Hammond Chaffetz, one of his attorneys, reported officials of the concern had been told to stop sending racing data at the close of the day's traffic.

He estimated that not more than 500 employees of Nationwide News would be affected by the stoppage.

Dissolution of the race news service may have the greatest impact on speakeasy trade since prohibition's repeal.

Some bet barons predicted ruin. Others envisioned a sharp slump in trade, possibly as much as 50 per cent.

A survey showed that among the projected plans were these:

1. Taking "time bets"—accepting wagers one day and paying off the next on the basis of accounts published in newspapers or racing forms.

2. Using public telephone and telegraph lines and air mail.

3. Obtaining reports from a Cuban radio station, "catching" results broadcast by some domestic stations, or establishing short wave wireless outfits in turf centers.

4. Assigning agents to posts in or near various tracks to relay information by wire, telephone, or wireless to a betting room or to an office serving as a central agency for a number of books.

INTANGIBLE TAX EXEMPTION MADE

Appellate Court Says Georgia Corporations Not Subject to Stock Levy.

The Georgia Court of Appeals held yesterday that stock owned in a domesticated corporation is not subject to the new state intangible tax.

The case grew out of a ruling by State Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head involving 3,696 shares of common stock and 105 shares of preferred stock in Rich's Incorporated, owned by Miss Rich.

Head declined to allow a claim for exemption and Miss Rich appealed to the State Board of Tax Appeals. The board upheld the claim as did Judge E. E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court. Head then appealed to the court of appeals, which upheld the superior court decision.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 8 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passage with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They help most people pass about 8 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Court Flashes Green Light For Romeo-Juliet Romance

Tribunal Rules 10-Day Rest Needed Before Love Making May Be Continued; Parents of Girl Ordered To Call Off Guards 'n' Everything.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(UP)—The parentally-frustrated romance of George (Romeo) Lowther and debutante Eileen (Juliet) Herrick was given the legal green light in supreme court today despite the scowling opposition of Juliet's father.

After she has had 10 days' rest in New York hospital, the court ruled, Eileen and George may take up their love making where it was interrupted when her disapproving father, Walter Herrick, locked the door of his castle, stationed private detectives on sentry-go at the door and let word go out that George, for all his social desirability, never was to get within kissing distance of his daughter again.

George, after rejecting plans for elopement by ladder, got a writ of habeas corpus and Judge Isidore Wasservogel ruled today that Eileen, being 20 years and three months old, had a legal right to see George any time she wished.

The matter was thrashed out in the judge's chambers, where Eileen, looking pale and nervous, arrived from the hospital, to which she said she went to "have a little peace." She told the court she had been held in her father's home against her will.

"I am very much in love with George," she said.

During the hearing George slipped her a wedding ring, his mother's, but Papa Herrick saw the act and insisted it be returned to him.

While Eileen's mother said she felt "very cordial" toward Lowther she objected "to some of the places he had taken my daughter."

"He has taken her to night clubs where there are kept women," she said.

Father Asks "Six Months."

"Your honor," Eileen said, "I'm not willing to stay home night after night."

Mrs. Herrick said she and her husband had agreed last Sunday with Lowther's lawyer, Eli Johnson, that the pair would separate

Official Faces Driving Charge After Mishap

Charles F. Collier, 58, of Route 1, Atlanta, assistant warden of Fulton county prison camps, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of reckless driving—accident after it was alleged by police the car he was driving struck and knocked from his bicycle Sammy Lavar, 19, of 350 Washington street.

The accident occurred at 8:45 o'clock at the intersection of Central and Woodward avenues. Lavar was admitted to Grady hospital where he was treated for cuts on both hands and his head. He also had several teeth knocked out.

Mr. Collier was released on his own recognizance pending a hearing in recorder's court at 4:30 o'clock November 22.

For six months, Johnson said Lowther rejected the agreement.

Parent Feints George Away.

"Does this mean," she asked Judge Wasservogel, when informed of his ruling, "that after 10 days I can live an ordinary, normal life?"

"That's right," the judge told her.

George was lingering in a courthouse corridor for a sight of his beloved when she arrived for the hearing. He advanced to greet her but the elder Herrick lifted a hand and ordered him sharply to "get back."

George retired.

When they parted at the end of the hearing, George and Eileen shook hands.

Johnson said he expected that after the 10-day delay had expired Romeo and Juliet will get married.

Author of Clean Georgia Story Admits Ignorance of Immorality

Thelma Thompson, Writer of 'Give Us This Night,' Visits Atlanta.

Thelma Thompson, the latest addition to the growing list of Georgia authors, arrived in Atlanta yesterday blushing to admit she doesn't know enough about immorality to write the usual sordid story of southern life.

Although her book is laid against a typical mill village background, and has taught school in a mill community for many years, she has yet to witness the scenes so long fictionally associated with mill life, she said.

As a matter of fact, it was what she considered unjust accusations leveled against southern mills which inspired her to begin writing her first work, "Give Us This Night."

"There may be immorality in mills," she explained, "but I have yet to see it. From personal experience, I know that people in the mill towns often have many more advantages than those who live outside."

"There's so much good going on in the world, that I thought I might as well use that and write a clean story about Georgia for a change."

That was a task for which she happened to be well qualified and so during the evenings, after her day's duties as a Thomaston school teacher were over, she began composing her first novel.

It took nearly a year to finish, but selling it was an easy task for Arcadia House, the first publisher to whom she submitted it, purchased it immediately.

THEATER GUILD'S COMEDY A DELIGHT

Presentation Well Received at Woman's Club; Maureen Beall Stars.

The Atlanta Theater Guild's players romped through a three-act comedy of pre-marital errors at the Woman's Club last night to the delight of their friends.

Their vehicle was Roberta Winter's "The Bridal Chorus" which tells the infirmities of woman's mind where love and wedding bells are concerned.

Gawky humor was supplied by Dr. Frank L. Belyeu, who, as the gentleman of the old school, entered a second childhood to resume an interrupted schoolboy crush on the bride's mother, played by Dorothy Himman. Best sustained performance was given by Maureen Beall with Herman Aaronson taking some acting honors even if his portrayal was as up and down as the lovers' quarrels amidst which he found himself cast.

Others in the cast were Ann Bellinger, Maybelle Wright, Nathalie Whitfield, Jackie Cameron, John Floyd, Sydney F. Owen, Earl Briggs, Louis Tiller, George T. Bush and Edwin A. Diehl.

MRS. LEILA GOULD DIES IN 69TH YEAR

Was Mother of Auditor of the State Milk Control Board.

Mrs. Leila Gould, 68, mother of Emmett L. Gould, auditor of the State Milk Control Board, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her son, 1518 Mozley place, N. W., after a short illness.

Mrs. Gould was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Alexander Orr, members of a prominent Georgia family, and was born in Atlanta in 1871. In 1889 she married the late Joseph B. Gould, well-known religious leader of Alabama, and made her home in Mobile until 1923 when, on the death of her husband, she returned to Atlanta.

She was a charter member of Peachtree Christian church and was widely known in the city for her activities in connection with the work of the church, being prominent in affairs of the Kingdom Class.

Surviving are two other sons, Josiah B. Gould, Tallahassee, Fla., and Daniel O. Gould, Atlanta; a daughter, Mrs. E. B. Harkness; a brother, S. C. Orr, both of Atlanta, and several grandchildren, nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

PANTAGES ASSERTS WIFE OFTEN DRUNK

Describes Speedboat Race When She Ran Craft 'All Over' Course.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Rodney Pantages, member of the wealthy vaudeville family, testified today that his wife, Beatrice, from whom he seeks a divorce, once broke a world speedboat record.

But he mentioned another race on the Salton sea in which she tried for a new record and didn't make it.

"She was running a mile straightaway," he said, "and she was running all over the course—just like a serpent."

"So you decided from that that she was drunk?" asked C. B. Conlin, lawyer for Mrs. Pantages who also wants a divorce. Each asks custody of their two children.

"I know she was intoxicated," Pantages replied.

Most of their troubles grew out of her imbibing too freely, he continued. Then he mentioned the time they were aboard the yacht Sea Lion in 1937.

"She accused me of being unbending for not taking a drink, so I went ashore at Avalon and bought a pint of champagne," Pantages testified. "When I got back she already had a drink in her hand. She kept fortifying all evening."

WOMAN, 72, KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

ELBERTON, Ga., Nov. 15.—(AP)

Sheriff John A. Starke reported that Mrs. Emma Andrews, 72, was killed today when she was struck by a car on the Toccoa highway about four miles from here.

F. F. ATHEARN, SOCIAL WORKER, IS FOUND DEAD

Body Slumped in Parked Automobile Discovered by Passer-By; Donehoo To Hold Inquest Today.

Frederick F. Athearn, executive secretary of the Atlanta office of the Travelers' Aid Society and a well-known social worker here for many years, was found dead shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in an automobile parked near Davis drive and Northside drive.

W. B. Flint made the discovery while inspecting some real estate and immediately reported to Fulton county officials. Officers F. C. Thompson, J. T. Carter and J. O. Smith investigated and reported they found a rubber hose extending from the exhaust to the interior of the car.

Athearn's body was slumped over the front seat and a note addressed to his wife was found near by. Its contents were not disclosed. The body was removed to Spring Hill and Coroner Paul Donehoo announced an inquest will be held there at 11 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Athearn recently moved from 90 Maddox drive and was living at 99 Second avenue, S. E.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Bernard Prontaut, Augusta, and Misses Sarah and Betty Lou Athearn; two sons, Mitchell Athearn, Atlanta, and F. F. Athearn Jr., Atlanta, and two brothers, Will Athearn, New Smyrna, Fla., and Frank Athearn, of Ohio.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

NIX WILL ADDRESS CITIZENSHIP RALLY

Athens Attorney To Speak Tuesday Night.

Abit Nix, Athens attorney and former gubernatorial candidate, will be the principal speaker at a citizenship meeting to be held Tuesday night in the auditorium of the Bass Junior High school.

Sponsored by the Joseph C. Greenfield Lodge No. 400, F. & A. M., the meeting will be attended by representatives from local civic and patriotic groups.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Yaraab Temple band and the Greenfield chorus. Louie Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, will introduce Mr. Nix.

COURT REVERSES DISABILITY VERDICT

Ruling Says 'Erroneous Charge' Was Received.

A decision in which Thomas Daniel, of Savannah, was awarded insurance disability benefits was reversed here yesterday by the Georgia court of appeals.

The ruling said the Chatham superior court, which found Daniel was due $663 plus interest for the loss of a hand, received an "erroneous charge" as to what constitutes total disability.

The court of appeals held that the lower tribunal erred in overruling a motion for a new trial. Daniel, employee of the Southeastern Compress & Warehouse Co., sued the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for the loss of the hand.

MURRY GUGGENHEIM COPPER KING, DIES

Capitalist Long Identified With Philanthropic Work in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Murry Guggenheim, capitalist member of the famous copper mining family, died today. Guggenheim, long identified with philanthropic work in New York, died at his Fifth avenue home after an illness of several days. He was 81.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Leonie Bernheim Guggenheim; a son and a daughter.
With the accumulation of mining millions, Guggenheim and his wife in 1929 established the Murry and Leonie Guggenheim Foundation for organized charitable and benevolent activities and subscribed more than $3,000,000 for free dental clinics to care for the teeth of poor children in New York.

"THOMAS CAN SAVE YOUR HAIR"

YOUR Hair can grow and will grow if (1) you keep your scalp free from infections, such as dandruff, and (2) if you systematically stimulate the sources of hair nourishment. Ninety percent of all cases of baldness result from the 14 local scalp infections which respond readily to Thomas treatment. If your scalp itches; if your hair is falling; or if you are troubled with dandruff—Nature is warning you that some of the 14 local scalp ills are attacking your hair. You can, if you choose, disregard these positive warnings—and become bald. Or you can consult a Thomas expert who will determine the exact cause of your hair loss, correct it, and make it possible for you to have a good head of hair.

More than a quarter-million men have avoided baldness by the reliable, dignified Thomas method. Thomas can help you, too. Consult a Thomas expert today. No charge is made for a complete scalp examination (always given in private).

Scarred Old Ship, With New Diesel, Prepares To Waddle Toward Pole

The Bear, Companion Craft to Byrd's North Star, Already En Route, Helped in Arctic Rescue Back in 1938.

By FRANCIS E. CAREY.
BOSTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The old barkentine Bear, which once carried the law to the roaring camps of Alaska during the gold-rush days, prepared tonight for exploration of 1,000 miles of uncharted, gale-swept coastline of Antarctica, as a companion craft preceded her toward the polar seas.
Her partner in the venture, motorship North Star, sailed at dawn today as lead-off ship for the United States Antarctic Service's projected exploratory and possible land-claiming venture to the bottom of the world.

Under command of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the expedition is the government's first antarctic venture in 100 years. Scheduled to sail next week to keep a New Year's rendezvous with the North Star in the Bay of Whales, the square-rigged Bear was ready to cruise outer Boston harbor tomorrow to test her performance under a new Diesel engine that replaces her auxiliary steam power.

The Bear began her career in the bloody business of seal-hunting, aided the navy on an expedition to rescue survivors of the ill-starred Greely expedition to the arctic in 1884, and for a generation served as a combination Good Samaritan and policeman among the ice packs off Point Barrow. She also participated in the last Byrd expedition.

The vessel will meet the North Star in the Ross Sea about January 1 and assist in establishing the expedition's west base near Little America. Then, she will head due east through seas reported little traveled, and where a 1,000-mile coastline remains to be explored before science can answer one of the major riddles regarding some 875,000 square miles of blank territory at the bottom of the world.

FREIGHT PERMITS GRANTED IN STATE

Certificates Are Issued by Public Service Commission.

The Georgia Public Service Commission granted a class "A" certificate of public convenience this week to the Lakeland Railway, Lakeland, Ga., for transportation of freight and express between Lakeland and Naylor via state highway No. 135.
Permission was granted F. C. Demott, of Hartfield, for transporting commodities within a radius of 100 miles of Moultrie, sugar from Savannah, and fertilizer, unmanufactured farm products, used household goods and livestock to all points of Georgia.
Also granted was an application of the Farmers' Bonded Warehouse, Inc., of Americus, for permission to transport commodities within a radius of 100 miles of Americus, sugar between Savannah and points within 100 miles of Americus, and fertilizer, household goods and livestock between all points in Georgia.
A. D. Burns Jr. and A. D. Burns Sr. were allowed transfer of class "A" certificate to the former for transportation between Glenville and Savannah.

GROUP NAMED TO SEEK MORE BRAZILIAN TRADE
WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A committee of businessmen headed by J. C. Trippe, president of Pan American Airways, was created today to seek expanded trade between the United States and Brazil.
The committee consists of members of the business advisory council of the Commerce Department and was formed at the request of Secretary Harry L. Hopkins. Hopkins has ordered Walter J. Donnelly, American commercial attaché at Rio de Janeiro, to fly home at once to help the group.

MUSTEROLE

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FACE PIMPLES

These disfiguring spots affecting the outer or surface layer of the skin often result from a temporary disturbance, or merely from incorrect cleansing.

You can relieve the itchy, burning soreness and help your skin by using an ointment whose medication stays in active contact with the pimply spots. Apply it every night and leave it on all night. It does a world of good.
For nearly 45 years people have used Resinol Ointment to fill this need. It soothes the irritated oil ducts where many surface pimples start, and aids healing. Carefully cleansing the skin with Resinol Soap helps to quicken the pleasing results. Its gently active lauryl is refreshing and it rinses easily.

Buy a jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap from any druggist. For free sample, write Resinol, Dept. 89, Baltimore, Md.

FUND DRIVE NEARS FINAL STAGE WITH $245,938 NEEDED

Workers Pass Halfway Mark Toward Goal of $541,403; Many Firms Are Not Yet Reported.

With but one scheduled report meeting left on the calendar, the seventeenth annual Community Fund appeal neared its final stages yesterday with solicitors reporting a total of $245,938 raised to date, leaving $245,938 to be raised for the $541,403 goal.

Several hundred workers gathered at the Athletic Club to render reports, were spurred on to greater efforts in a final drive toward the goal and then were urged to return to the Friday report meeting with "results."

Appeal leaders are confident over results of the campaign to date, pointing out that many large firms will have not reported results of employee solicitation.

Reports Are Analyzed.
A breakdown of the reports rendered yesterday by division showed the following amounts had been realized since the second report luncheon last Friday:

Advance gifts division (second section), $33,789; women's central, $11,116; men's central, $3,928; groups, $49,711; public employees, $11,123; DeKalb county, $3,909; and Fulton county, $600.

In each instance the divisions made it plain that their work was far from finished, and General Chairman W. C. Harris urged each group leader to keep the army driving intensely.

Lambdin Kay presented figures showing the staggering sums spent annually by various governmental units on crime prevention and suppression and the many forms of relief.

Single Method Giving.

Mr. Kay pointed to the 33 agencies supported by the Community Fund and claimed that such organizations were the "single method" of reducing the burden of taxpayers in supporting the governmental relief and crime prevention.

"I doubt if there is an organization in Atlanta which spends less for actual overhead than the Community Fund and the agencies," he declared. "Operations are supervised by a group of directors, serving without pay, and those who would have you believe that social workers are overpaid are sadly misinformed."

Mr. Kay asked the workers to remember when calling on prospective givers that they are backed up by the moral support of the thousands of children and needy and handicapped adults who benefit by the money raised.

Entertainment Given.

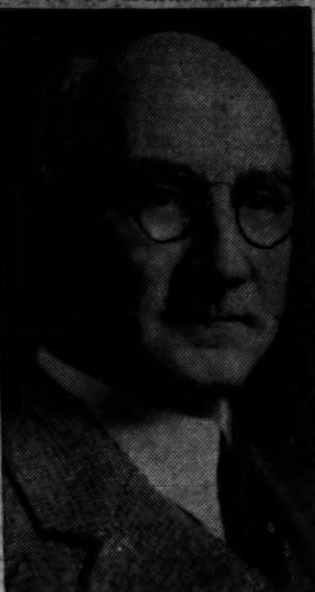

Volunteer entertainment was furnished at the luncheon by Hal Mayfield and his orchestra with solos by Kittle Nowland. As a special added attraction, the Atlanta Holmes entertainers rendered several loudly applauded numbers. Soloist Bernice Johnson was flanked on both sides by a bevy of lovely girls with equally lovely voices, including Kay Kimball, Janet Kelly, Doris Corrie, Evelyn Day, Catherine Huggins, Julianne May, Edith Wood, and Jerry Hughes.

As the campaign nears its closing date, additional firms in Greater Atlanta continue to increase their gifts over amounts

REFORM MAYOR SHOT BY OFFICER

Bodyguard Wounded Critically, Postman Nicked in Fusillade.

LONG BEACH, N. Y., Nov. 15. (AP)—Death in a fusillade of five gunshots today ended the anti-gambling crusade of Louis F. Edwards, 40, reform mayor of this seaside resort on the south shore of Long Island.

His bodyguard, Police Sergeant James Walsh, was perhaps fatally wounded before he could draw his gun.

A stray bullet also nipped the hand of a passing postman, Fred Schratweiser.

The shooting took place in front of the mayor's home as he was leaving for his office.

A few minutes later, a figure with bloodshot eyes lurched into the Long Beach police station, slammed a revolver on the desk and shouted:

"I killed the mayor!"

The slayer, according to police, was Patrolman Alvin Dooley, 45, father of four children, who was recently demoted from the Long Beach motorcycle police squad and who was defeated last week by the wounded Sergeant Walsh in an election for president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

Officials said Mayor Edwards supported Walsh for the post which Dooley formerly held.

Dooley was charged with homicide and taken to the jail at nearby Mineola as a crowd of 1,000 milled outside the local police station raising cries of "lynch him."

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 16, 1938.

Atlanta School Needs

No person at all informed about the condition of some units in the Atlanta public school system, will deny there is urgent need for improvements in buildings and equipment.

When conditions exist like the housing of students at Boys' High and Tech High in portable buildings that have for years been condemned as injurious to health, when children have to spend hours daily in such firetraps as the wooden portables that have for so long served at Murphy and Maddox Junior High schools, when there are such disgraceful makeshifts as those in use at Capitol View and Sylvan Hills elementary schools and at other schools for white and for negro children, there exists an urgency of need that should bring shame to the hearts of all civic-minded citizens.

Undoubtedly there is critical need for improvements at other public institutions of the city, hospitals, etc., but there is nothing which cries aloud so emphatically as the needs of the schools. The safety of children should be the first duty of every citizen and, only second to that responsibility of any civilized community, comes the provision of the finest possible educational opportunities for those children.

It has been announced that a $5,000,000 bond issue will be submitted to the voters, by referendum, next spring. This sum includes items for the schools and for other improvements. It is tentatively suggested that the proposal be submitted in itemized form, so each voter can approve each project separately. Thus, if one item arouses his opposition, he can so vote without endangering the success of the entire bond issue.

A proposed bond issue failed, by lack of sufficient voters, of approval in 1938. Under the law bonds can only be voted if those in favor total more than half the registered voters of the city and more than two-thirds of those casting ballots. In 1938 the bonds secured the requisite two-thirds majority by a wide margin, but failed to gain one-half of the registered voters support. This, undoubtedly, was due to apathy, to those who failed to go to the polls at all, rather than to active opposition.

If the same result is not to recur next spring, it will be necessary to conduct an intensive campaign to bring all voters to the ballot booths when election day arrives. The first step in such a campaign should be the gaining of public confidence in those who, once the bonds are issued, will be responsible for the spending of the money and for supervision of the projects to be built.

Undoubtedly most opposition to bonds, in the past, has arisen out of mistrust of the use of the money once it has been secured. Nine-tenths of the voters are willing, nay anxious, to see such disgraceful conditions as those at many of the schools ended. But they want to feel sure that there will be no waste of taxpayers' money. Bonds have to be paid for by the taxpayers eventually. Those taxpayers do not mind spending money for necessary causes, but they do want to know, beyond doubt, that they and the city will receive one hundred cents of value for each dollar expended.

Once this can be assured so emphatically that there will be no doubt left in the minds of Atlantans generally, there need be no question that any necessary bond issue will be approved.

Where is the vaunted ingenuity of the German savant? Before this he should have found some way to make a British leaflet edible.

Now that the government is closing in, maybe Comrades Kuhn and Browder ought to switch to the Panama registry.

After a trial of the slate-blue uniform, the army goes back to the good old olive drab and gray unrestrained at all meals.

If the west front fighter thinks the war to date is a puzzle, wait till he receives the knitted what-is-it from home.

Father Divine isn't suing but it certainly looks as though Hitler swiped his slogan—"Peace! It's wonderful!"

The better wizards say the death ray is the bunk, which is as we thought. For years, John Lewis and Bill Green have stood up under each other's stares.

Mystery piles on mystery, in the Munich beer hall blast. Who, for example, pays for that last round of drinks, served just before the explosion?

Toledo Schools Close

Economic stringency in educational and city affairs is a disease that troubles not only Georgia and Atlanta, but many other states and communities. It will be recalled that schools, last spring, were closing before normal vacation time, because teachers could not be paid, in many states, notably parts of Pennsylvania, as well as in Georgia.

Now comes the report that, facing a $600,000 deficit, the public schools of Toledo have been ordered closed on November 23, until the New Year, when new revenue will then permit their re-opening.

The situation in Toledo is more startling than it might be in most other cities, for the reason that Ohio city has always stood exceptionally high in its public school ratings. The system there has been held up to the rest of the country somewhat as an ideal example of what can be achieved and the Toledo schools have been regarded as among the finest in the nation.

On one point at least the Toledo public education system is unique. It has the only evening college, where students who must work during the daytime may secure college degrees, which makes no charge whatever for tuition. Supported by the city, this college is free to all who can qualify for admission.

It is a shocking commentary upon the administration of public affairs anywhere when the cause of education is so restricted as to necessary funds that school doors must be closed and children denied their fundamental right to equal opportunity for education. When that condition exists in a city with such a school record as is Toledo's, the condition is more startling than in less favored centers and one which should bring the blush of shame and realization of inefficiency to the officials and the people responsible for such a state of affairs.

So That's Settled!

The American public awoke Wednesday morning of this week to find one of the great problems of the times has been, at last, brought to a traditionally happy conclusion. Or, should it be said, interim?

For Eleanor Holm is now Mrs. Billy Rose. The ceremony, performed in judge's chambers at New York, should be the climax of vicarious worry that must have disturbed the peace of millions of American hearts. Eleanor and Billy have indulged in that hesitant-appearing kiss for the benefit of the news photographers. So let's leave 'em alone for awhile. Perhaps, in privacy, osculation technique will improve.

The Holm-Rose romance reaches the "happy-ever-after" stage under the finest of auspices. Billy has his night club where he can secure physical sustenance whenever Eleanor burns the biscuits or cinderizes the evening steak. Eleanor has the Aquacade pool, or any other body of water handy, in which to cool off when Billy makes her too mad.

Of course, if true love's avenue should prove too bumpy, both have had previous experience along the divorce detour.

It is, perhaps, good that public interest in America can concentrate so strongly on such stories as the Holm-Rose romance. Probably it is good for the national mind to be so preoccupied, rather than with the fears and horrors and problems of war. Love and kisses may, even, be superior mental diet to worry over the national debt and the rising rate of taxation.

But, no matter how salutary romance, even vicariously, may be, it is most sincerely to be hoped, now the knot is tied—whether it be lovers' knot, showman's hitch or slipknot—we can all leave the Roses, for a little while at least, to that privacy which should always be observed during honeymoons.

Surely, neither the Rose shows on Broadway nor the Aquacade at the World's Fair will suffer if there is a hiatus, for the next few weeks, in the throbbing romantic details—published—of the diminutive showman and the natatorial queen.

Of course, when man reverts to the ape, he can get the cat down out of the tree without calling the fire ladders.

Editorial of the Day

THERE IS NO NEUTRALITY FOR SMALL STATES IN EUROPEAN WAR

(From The Houston Post.)

As Belgium, Finland, Holland and Switzerland can testify, there is no such thing as neutrality for a small country in Europe when its powerful neighbors take up arms in war.

Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition in the British parliament, discussed recently the plight of Europe's weak nations, and made the only practical suggestion for protecting them in the future which has been advanced in recent years.

Mr. Attlee said this war, like the World War, will have been fought in vain if, at the conclusion, a real confederation of European states is not set up. He pointed out that the machinery of a confederation is not enough. It must have at its disposal an army capable of enforcing the collective will of the international partnership.

Only in that manner, he said, can the security of small states be guaranteed. Words and paper resolutions will not suffice.

He proposes, in other words, a European league of nations without the fatal weakness of the League which rose from the ashes of the World War. If a new league is formed, it must have an army to act as an international police force. Thus, even before the present European war begins in earnest, far-visioned men are thinking about the kind of Europe and the kind of world we will have to live in after the guns are silenced.

We need more thinking of that kind, because if war ever is to be banished permanently, it will be because men recognize mistakes and profit from bitter experience.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

PAPAL REBUKE TO COUGHLIN WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. Long documents are often hard to synopsize, yet it is surprising so little attention has been paid to the most remarkable passage in Pope Pius XII's thoughtful encyclical to the American church. This was a brief, sharply worded paragraph which can only be taken as a direct rebuke to Father Charles E. Coughlin. Possibly it even foreshadows some action against the radio priest by the powerful hierarchy which he unfortunately misrepresents.

"We have learned with no little joy," wrote the Holy Father, "that the Marconi radio—marvelous invention and excellent image of the apostolic faith that embraces all mankind—is frequently and advantageously put to use in order to insure the widest possible promulgation of all that concerns the church. We commend the good accomplished. But let those who fulfill this ministry be careful to adhere to the directives of the teaching church, even when they explain and promote what pertains to the social problem; forgetful of personal gain, despising popularity, impartial, let them speak 'as from God, before God, in Christ.'"

The words, carefully chosen as they are, seem all the more meaningful as an echo of the recent attack on Coughlin by the Rev. Bernard Shiel, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, who was prepared by Cardinal Mundelein before his untimely death. Bishop Shiel, it is significant to note, spoke shortly after returning from a visit to Rome. There can be little doubt that he and Cardinal Mundelein served as the vehicles for protests to the Vatican against Coughlin from all sorts of American moderates and liberals. The Pope himself, on his visit here as Cardinal Pacelli, is known to have investigated the Coughlin problem.

Reports from Rome confirm the impression that the Pope has now squarely indorsed the Shiel-Mundelein view of Coughlin.

COUGHLIN AND THE CHURCH The Pope's words are all the more important, because they come at a time when Father Coughlin's radio activities are seriously threatened by the new code of the National Association of Broadcasters. The code prohibits the sale of radio time to persons like Coughlin, who wish to buy it for the discussion of controversial subjects. It is currently in jeopardy because of pressure from Coughlinites on member stations of the broadcasters' association.

Hitherto, Coughlin has gained great strength because a comparatively small and quite unrepresentative element in the Catholic hierarchy has seemed to approve his doings. For example, when the New York radio station, WMCA, refused to carry Coughlin's broadcasts, an ostensibly Catholic organization took a leading part in promoting a boycott. As the hierarchy as a whole is very wise as well as very strong, all really influential circles of the church have been deeply disturbed by Coughlin. Now that the Pope has spoken, they will be better able to bring their influence to bear.

AT THE FCC It may be that this new development will save the N. A. B. code from the difficulties which it is impossible to predict the final decision of the stations now carrying Coughlin's program. If the radio industry's self-regulatory effort should fail, however, it must also be remembered that the Federal Communications Commission can step in. Chairman James L. Fly is known to believe that radio propagandists must be dealt with somehow, and it is understood that, if the code breaks down, the FCC will consider transforming the code rules into binding commission regulations.

Many suppose (wrongly) that the FCC is foreclosed from effective action because the President's son, Elliott Roosevelt, is strongly against the code. He has even denounced it on the air, in a long passage interpolated into one of his regular broadcasts of news comment after the script had been approved by the unsuspecting Mutual Broadcasting System.

Actually, however, Chairman Fly has discussed the President's son with the President himself. The President has told Fly, on several occasions, that he need pay no attention to young Roosevelt, and, if anything, his views carry less weight at the FCC than those of other station managers of equivalent importance. Furthermore, the President heartily favors the N. A. B. code which his son has attacked. Altogether, the chances appear to be good for settling the question of air propagandists once and for all, and in the rather near future.

Mind-Reading

Vaudeville Acts.

Years ago, when vaudeville was something to really enjoy, there was one special type of act which, seemingly, was high in popularity with the average audiences of the two-a-day. Personally, it never appealed. Just one more evidence of the peculiarity of your Silhouette.

These were the mind-reading acts. All of the same general description, though each had its own individualities wherein it differed from others.

Does anyone reading these lines remember Madame Fay? Headliner in the bigtime vaudeville circuit some 30 years ago. Or the act which followed her's eventually, called "The Phays." Made up of a group of disgruntled former employees of Madame Fay whose vaudeville stock in trade was exposing the tricks and secrets of their erstwhile employer.

One common item in these acts was "reading the minds" of members of the audience, apparently chosen at random. Everyone in the audience was invited to write his, or her, name on paper. These bits of paper were later collected by the gentlemanly attendants in the aisles. That was all. Just your name.

Then, if the professor, blindfolded on the stage—perhaps covered with a big sheet or something, with no other information than the name, would announce lots of surprisingly correct information about you. That is, if you were lucky and it was your name he drew out of the pile.

No one could guess how he knew the strictly personal things he told. Must be something to that mind-reading, after all.

For Example.

It went something like this: "I hold in my hand the name of, let me see"—(business of concentrating)—Doctor Phineas Bugswatter. Is that right?"

An embarrassed man on the second row confessed to the name.

"Let me see, Dr. Bugswatter, you are an allopathic physician and your wife is the former Miss Lizzie Souffle. Is that correct?"

It was correct, Dr. Bugswatter conceded. So, assured he had the right goat by the horns, our mind-reader tosses away discretion and really goes to town.

"You are, the spirits tell me, quite successful in your chosen profession, Dr. Bugswatter. You've made a record to be proud of since you said goodbye to grand old Testtube Med, haven't you? Let me see, that was with the class of Oughty-Ought. But I'll bet you are prouder of those two young'uns, Pickle and Nuisance, than of anything else in your life."

"Doctor, you are worried about something. I can feel it. Some investment or other undertaking connected with money. Right?"

Well, I want to assure you things are going to be all right. Quite all right. Everything will turn out swell and you'll make a nice piece of money. I'll call you sometime—Oh, I know your phone number, BEE-ax oh, oh, oh, on, at number 10,000 Crooked street. Apartment three."

How on earth did he know all that?

The Trick.

Well, all those "mind-readers" had assistants, beneath or back stage, well supplied with important information. The city directory, telephone book, local medical directory, graduate "Who's Who" of the local educational institutions, business "write-up" publications, etc., etc. It was always easy to find a few names in the thousands given them about whom a lot of information could be secured, from such sources, quickly. And you can find out things about "most anybody" without going further than the directory and phone book.

The only guesswork was that worried financial affair. And that wasn't guesswork, either. For there aren't two out of a 1,000 who aren't worried, some way, about finances.

The only danger lies in confusing the subject with some other person of the same name in the directory. But when you've once got the wife's maiden name—culled from a professional "Who's Who"—confirmed by your subject, you know everything is okay. And it is astonishing how many startling things you can deduce, if you are quick-witted, from this easily available information.

The Experiment

Succeeded.

Tried it out, yesterday, in a minor sort of way. Casually dropped, in the hearing of a very casual acquaintance, three or four items of personal information about my victim. She was so startled she begged me to reveal the source of my information. All I replied was that no one had told me and that I had, in the past, made quite extensive studies of the science of mind-reading. She was still worried and troubled, but I promised to "tell all" in this column, this morning. So, here it is. I got all my information from the city directory and the phone book.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Monday, November 16, 1914: "The doors of the federal bank of the sixth reserve district, in the Hurt building, in Atlanta, will be thrown open for business some time this morning—probably about 9 o'clock."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, November 16, 1889: "John M. England, of the Tribune in Rome, was in the city yesterday working up advertising patronage among the Atlanta merchants."

Dirty Shirts Come.

Publisher H. A. Harry, of the Suffolk (Va.) News Herald, thought nothing of it when he received one of those packages with a first class letter attached.

He looked a bit puzzled after reading the letter, which made no mention of a package being sent. He was thoroughly confused when he opened the package—containing several soiled shirts.

Then came the dawn. The writer of the letter, traveling, had intended to send the shirts to his wife for the laundry. Her name and address were found on the package.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

What's Wrong SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 15. After three days of conscientious listening, I have just discovered what is wrong with the big story of Maury Maverick's fight against the powers of entrenched greed, indifference and all like that, in San Antonio. The trouble is that it is just another lousy little local political fight which would not have been heard of beyond the county limits but for Maverick's national reputation or publicity as a New Dealer. As most of us know, Maverick was a New Deal congressman for two terms, but was knocked off the last time around. He was beaten by a fellow townsman named Paul Kilday, but came right back as a candidate for mayor and was elected, whereupon he started a lower class deal of his own in San Antonio.

The first holdover whom he fired was Owen Kilday, the chief of police, a brother of the man who laced him in the congressional election. Just lately, look, a picture magazine, published by Maverick, broken up into paragraphs, or cut-lines as we call them in the newspaper business, and one of these pictures showed Owen Kilday, a jowly copper, asleep in a chair with the bill of his cap shading his eyes. It was one of those dirty-pool pictures which the picture magazines have introduced into journalism, conveying a suggestion that Kilday was always asleep on the job, and, with a little help from the imagination, that he was rumormongering. The cut-line didn't say that, when the picture was taken, Kilday had just done 48 hours of continuous duty in an emergency, but friends of Kilday insist that such was the case. I don't know. I wasn't there, but I am told that is the other side of the picture.

Old Men

Out of Jobs.

Maverick tore the police department apart. It does appear to have been a terrible police force and, incidentally, typical of the police work in so many minor league cities where cops are political appointees and neither intelligence, training nor aptitude is considered. Maverick got together a board, and 68 cops out of the 248 were fired. He says that in the I. Q. tests the marks actually hit zero in seven or eight cases, that the head of one important squad scored only five and that the other men who were dismissed scored between 35 and 85. The average age of those who were fired, or, if you prefer a nicer word, retired, was above 60 years, and this would be a good place to consider why the word "retired" is the bunk in these cases and why so many old men were still hanging around. They aren't actually retired at all, because retirement ordinarily implies a pension. The pension plan of the San Antonio police department fell apart a long time ago, because it was unworkable from the beginning and the old men had been allying the state on because there were no pensions for them. Now there are no pensions for them now. They are just old men tossed out of their jobs.

Maverick's new deal follows the pattern of Mr. Roosevelt's. He brought in a bright young college-taught police executive named Ray Ashworth, a damned Yankee, what's worse, and made him chief, and Ashworth set up a police academy in which a lot of young, snappy cadets studied, finger-pulling, evidence, in all, a compact paraphrase or gist of the modern stuff that Edgar Hoover's men learn in Washington.

New Type

Cop.

Ashworth is a picture-cop of the new type, a great big, lean, athletic fellow about 34, with huge hands, the neck of a wrestler and a magazine-cover profile. He played football and basketball in high school, the name of which is lost somewhere among my notes, and learned police work in Wichita.

Wichita, it appears, has an almost perfect police department. This was news to me, too. Afterwards, Ashworth lectured on police work, particularly traffic, at Northwestern University and had a job organizing street safety systems in various cities as an itinerant expert. His new job calls for courage, not merely of the physical kind, which is expected of all cops, but because obviously a Yankee would be subject to prejudice in San Antonio, and, moreover, the resentment against Maverick's treatment of the political cops who were fired or demoted runs against him.

But you see the similarity of Maverick's method to President Roosevelt's. Like the President, he goes out of his way to humiliate those whom he has defeated and he can't resist the temptation to pop off with unnecessary rough remarks which hit whole groups of elements of the population and their loyalty. Like Mr. Roosevelt, he has a subtle way of suggesting that "respectability," as the term has always been understood by Americans, is in some way predated and irreparable.

Although, as I said, this is just a local political fight, I think I will wish it again tomorrow, because Maverick is a news maker and his involvement in the story has blown it up.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

NO ONE BELIEVES A CANDIDATE A fellow came in and said he had seen Candidate Hugh Howell going along the street apparently talking to himself. He stopped the attorney-candidate for governor and asked him about it. The candidate did not deny it. In fact, he said he might have been.

It seems the gubernatorial candidate is puzzled and a bit distressed. All last summer, in something like 150 speeches, Candidate Howell was saying that he believed state pay ought to be distributed. He was saying that if the teachers got cut a month's pay the Governor and the Governor's cook and all the clerks and department heads ought to be cut a month's pay.

He is sorry, I think, he did not put a copyright on the idea. What distresses him and has him talking to himself, or nearly so, is that today the head of the teachers, some of their best friends and the state's attorney general all have advanced the idea and it is receiving general commendation.

I am sure it will not hurt Candidate Howell's feelings if it is herein mentioned that he was saying this last summer. In fact, what injured his feelings was the fact no one seems to remember his saying it.

The telephone being handy, I rang up Candidate Howell and he admitted being puzzled about what a candidate says?" he asked, in a mildly plaintive tone. "I said it 152 times last summer and now it has been advanced as a sensible idea. Even you," he said accusingly, "seem to be for it."

CANDIDATES DISCOUNTED It is an unhappy commentary on candidate, any candidate, has his sayings given the ordinary political discount, which discount runs from 15 to 25 per cent. The candidates themselves, down through our history, from alderman to president, have been long on promises and short on performance. The few exceptions merely prove the rule.

The public very properly refuses to swallow the candidates' words without a grain of salt. Indeed, two or three grains often are advisable. The candidates cannot blame the public for adopting that attitude as a sort of self-preservation attitude. Unhappily, it does not preserve or protect.

When Mr. Hugh Howell was asking for cuts in the state pay roll to be applied in a blanket fashion, no such crisis as now exists was in the picture. True enough, Candidate Howell claimed he was able to see that far into the future. But again, he was a candidate and the public is entitled to the usual discount. It is a condition brought about by the candidates themselves and they themselves will have to correct it—if it is corrected.

FORGETTING THE WAR Meanwhile, our state politics are making us forget the war. Governor Millican is considerably more interesting than Hitler or Mr. Chamberlain.

Mr. "Hell Bent" Edwards, who was a Rivers delegate at the convention, gets back into the picture with a friendly pat on the back for Candidate-to-be Mr. Talmadge. It is evident Mr. "Hell Bent" Edwards intends to be a Talmadge delegate if he can. The war between the Governor and Mr. Millican grew out of a speech before the Atlanta Rotary Club in which he advocated the investigation of the state government.

Governor Rivers, who has been turning aside words of wrath with soft answers, came back with a verbal blast at Senator Millican which was in the old-time Rivers manner. Having followed the Biblical adjuration to "turn the other cheek" for so long it had become tiresome, the Governor came back with a statement which was as hot as one ordinarily saved for July or August of a campaign summer.

It might have been the better politics to say: "Certainly, let who will investigate. Let it be the grand jury or the economy committee or any other duly authorized and constituted committee or body."

No matter what the better politics, the controversy is much more entertaining than the war. And in the shouting about investigations it ought to be recalled that the economy committee did considerable investigating and before that there was a loud demand the Talmadge administration be investigated. The trouble with most investigations is they grow out of political interests.

THAT LEGISLATIVE SESSION Meanwhile, it becomes interesting to see how the Governor is going to handle the remainder of the term.

The Governor enjoys the better strategic position in the matter of the legislature. He has offered to call the members into session if they will pledge to vote for the program of schools, health and old-age pensions.

This effort has failed. The Governor then refused to issue the call.

The public knows the legislature, if it wishes to correct the current situation, can at any time call itself into session. If it does so it can meet but 25 days. It then would have to go through the mechanics of issuing another call for another 25 days.

It is not a very comfortable position.

There is one more uncomfortable position. That is the one occupied by the school teachers.

Is it difficult to understand why no one completely believes a candidate?

By ROBERT QUILEN.

We have reason to be proud of our nation's history. The men and women who built America were strong and brave. From first to last it was no job for weaklings.

To start at scratch and build the world's greatest nation in 150 years is an achievement never duplicated in human history. It took hard work and great ability, but most of all it required enterprise and courage and daring. Men easily scared couldn't have done it.

But now something has gone out of us. Whatever the explanation may be, our attitude toward life has changed within the last 10 years. We no longer look forward; we ask only to settle down and be safe. Even our young people talk about security.

GOOD MORNING

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

The larger religious groups of Georgia are just now holding their annual conventions and conferences, and in every instance the reports of increased membership and gifts are most heartening. The Methodists, white and colored, and the Baptists, white and colored, form the majority of church members in the state. I have read with great joy the reports in the daily press of their progress during the past year. Equally heartening are the reports that I have seen of other groups.

With much of the world overwhelmed in war, it is encouraging to find that our people are going steadily on in the most important of all work, namely, religion. Throughout all the years of economic depression and social upheaval, through which our own nation has passed along with the rest of the world, our churches have prospered. The Gospel has been proclaimed, and souls have been saved. And with taxes greatly increased and incomes and wages substantially reduced, the gifts of the church people have constantly increased.

Crime has also increased, but what would have been the situa-

MOVIE WORKERS THREATEN STRIKE

Demand 10 Per Cent Wage Increase.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15.—(AP)—American Federation of Labor film studio unions today announced a walkout of 35,000 members unless a 10 per cent wage increase is granted by producers by 4:30 p. m. (Atlanta time) next Monday. The strike would be effective Tuesday morning.

William Bioff, chairman of a recently-formed conference of studio unions, including all AFL workers in the studios, served an ultimatum upon the producers at the close of a meeting in which union and producer representatives participated.

tion in our land if the churches had let down? It is true that our jails are crowded and our prisons are overflowing, but it is also true that an increasing proportion of our people are quietly seeking to walk with the Lord. History reveals the never-ceasing effort of Satan to overthrow the Kingdom of God, and history also reveals his continuous failure.

Cynics are (and always have) asking what is wrong with the church? I delight to answer, what is right with the church? I ran into a man the other day who was on a rampage about the church. He had a small group of people in his congregation—listening, but saying not a word. As I walked up, he said, maybe the person can tell us what is wrong with religion. I asked him if he would come along with me to take some groceries to a needy family. No, he would not. I asked him if he would join me an hour later to hear Dr. Davis, Mrs. Eubank and Dr. Pierce. No, he would not. I asked him if he would attend any church of his choice the following Sunday, watch the children in Bible school and join the congregation in worship. No, he would not. I asked him if he would go with me to our orphanage, our hospital. No, he would not. And as he made the last refusal, he walked away. An old man in the group shook his head and said, "He doesn't want to know what's wrong with the church. He's afraid to face his own proposition." Let us give thanks for the progress everywhere in evidence that the Kingdom of God is coming.

Moreover, the actor declared, "the supposed defamatory words set forth in the complaint are true."

Joint City-County Bond Issue Plan Is Proposed by Torras

Engineer Writes Gilliam That Program Would Stagger School, Sanitary, Water, Traffic and Hospital Projects Over a 10-Year Period.

Submission of a joint bond issue for a co-operative and "planned" development of Atlanta and Fulton county during which sanitary, traffic, water, hospital, recreation, school and other improvements would be staggered over a period of 10 years, was proposed yesterday by Raymond W. Torras, engineer-secretary of the city planning commission.

In a letter to Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of council's finance committee, who has begun formation of a $5,000,000 bond issue program for Atlanta alone, Torras suggested that "the better way to secure public improvements is through a ten-year improvement plan such as other cities are doing and is in popular favor, economical and satisfactory."

Mayor Hartsfield also urged "studied thought" in preparation of the bond issue.

Hartsfield Favors Improvements.

"I am just as much in favor of building needed schools and replacing the fire trap at Grady hospital as I was when the bond issue was defeated last year," Hartsfield said. "We must keep uppermost in our minds that any program must be carefully and soundly planned before it has a chance for ratification."

When Gilliam made his original announcement, he said he planned to prepare the program for submission to the electorate probably next spring.

"A plan of this kind, I am sure, would work to a better city for all concerned," Torras said in pointing out state and federal governments may be interested to the point where they will give "conscious and serious thought and help to such a project."

"Each year of the ten, we would know where to look for certain improvements to take place. Our whole area would be systematically improved since we would be working by a plan."

Conferences Planned.

Gilliam announced he will confer with Torras and other city officials before asking any definite action on his proposed bond issue.

Copies of Torras' letter were dispatched to Robert C. Love and Robert L. MacDougall, chairmen of the city and county planning commissions, respectively.

The communication also hinted that DeKalb county might be interested in joining a regional plan of improvement and in the elimination of the traffic problem facing the metropolitan area.

In his initial announcement, Gilliam said schools probably would need $1,500,000 to meet emergency housing needs, the auditorium would need another $1,000,000 and that other departments should have the remaining $2,500,000.

MEDICINE SHOWMAN RUNS FOR GOVERNOR

Free Shows, Lee O'Daniel Style, Are Promised in Campaign.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. EATONTON, Ga., Nov. 15.—Georgia's 1940 gubernatorial campaign has another hat in the ring with the announcement here today by Joe Wallace, owner and manager of the Sagwan Indian Medicine Company and the Florida Orange Blossom shows, which he operates together.

"My campaign," he said, "will be conducted in a manner similar to that of Lee O'Daniel, of Texas, who gave the folks hillbilly music and songs. I am going to give them free shows—maybe two or three a day."

He declares that he is in favor of the Little New Deal, but added that it must be run on a more sensible basis.

"Governor Rivers just can't seem to be able to say 'No,'" he exclaimed. "I am going to pay the school teachers, the old-age pensions and do it without levying a sales tax."

'MYSTERY' TRUNK TO KEEP ITS SECRET

Crater Clues Sought There But Court Rules Chest Is Inviolable.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The nine-year search for a clue to the fantastic disappearance of State Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater pointed today to one of seven trunks held in a hospital for a demented ex-showgirl.

The law ruled that seventh trunk could not be opened.

thus became a "mystery trunk," although it contains only odds and ends from the past which haunts the clouded mind of the girl. Crater is supposed to have visited her in her Manhattan apartment that night in 1930 when he vanished.

Counsel for Mrs. Stella Crater Kuntz, the remarried widow who seeks $60,000 double insurance indemnity, said he believed the unopened trunk might contain a diary. If so, the book might, he thought, throw light on Crater's last hours of life in the hot glare of Broadway's night spots, which justice frequented.

Six of the seven trunks have been opened by hospital authorities—and apparently they found nothing worth reporting to police. The key to the seventh has not been found.

BAPTISTS POSTPONE ORPHANAGE ACTION

Macon Is Selected as Site for 1940 Georgia Convention.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Georgia Baptist convention received "with Christian sympathy" today an offer to make a $50,000, debt-free industrial orphanage an official convention institution, but deferred decision until next year. The institution is the South Georgia orphanage, near Baxley.

A committee, to be named later, will investigate and report to the 1940 convention.

Nearing adjournment tomorrow of its three-day session, the convention voted to hold its next year's meeting at the First Baptist church, Macon, November 12-14. It chose Dr. F. S. Porter, of Columbus, to preach the convention sermon with the Rev. R. L. Robinson, of Mount Vernon, as alternate.

A rising vote of thanks was given Dr. James W. Berritt, of Atlanta, executive secretary, of his work in establishing a ministers' retirement plan which, he reported, 701 churches and 346 pastors already have joined.

Accepting a report of its nominating committee headed by Dr. T. C. Callaway, of Thomasville, the convention elected the following committees and trustees:

Executive committee, terms to expire in 1941: Mrs. Paul Elbridge, Atlanta; Willis E. Howard, LaGrange; J. E. Hall, Lavonia; R. T. Russell, Waycross; L. Glover Bailey, Atlanta; Mrs. C. A. Hartman, Dawson; John Marman, Baxley; Carey Vinzant, Sandersville; and Selwyn Smith, Atlanta, term to expire in 1940, to succeed J. L. Drake, resigned.

Trustees of Georgia Baptist Orphanage (Hapeville), terms to expire in 1941: G. J. Austin, Moultrie; Mrs. B. C. Burke, Comer; Mrs. F. C. Garrard, Hapeville; Lee Routh, Dalton; and Mrs. H. E. Short, Decatur.

Trustees of Georgia Baptist Hospital (Atlanta), terms to expire in 1941: B. L. Bugg, Atlanta; G. F. Garrison, Atlanta; D. C. Kelly, Lawrenceville; D. S. Reese, Carrollton; H. H. Wilson, Savannah; and W. B. Williamson Jr., Atlanta.

AIM AT ONE BIRD, ADVERTISERS TOLD

Nationally Known Executive Discusses 'Advertising Here and There.'

"Advertisers must aim at one bird, not the whole covey," Davis M. DeBard, of New York, nationally known advertising executive, told members of the Atlanta Advertising Club yesterday.

Mr. DeBard, who returned from Europe just two days before hostilities began, spoke to the club on "Advertising Here and There."

He described advertising methods in Europe, and said that all of Europe, particularly England and Sweden, are following the advertising methods of the United States.

That the survey system for advertising is the best way to determine who the buyers are, was pointed out by Mr. DeBard. He explained the need for honesty in advertising more than ever, because of a more skeptical public. Mr. DeBard also described the advantage gained by local dealers who take part in national advertising campaigns.

TAMMANY THROUGH, LAGUARDIA ASSERTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia said today the Democratic sweep in the New York municipal elections last week did not preclude a return to power of Tammany Hall.

The man who beat Tammany twice in succession, asserted: "Any good man can beat Tammany."

But he evaded a question as to whether he would be the "good man" to beat the Hall in 1941.

La Guardia said the Democratic victories in the city last week merely reflected the lack of public interest in the off-year election.

"Of course," he added, "New York is a New Deal city. But Tammany is through."

War or Peace

Business Will Continue To Improve With Consequent Rise in Prices

THE WAR INFLUENCE means even greater stimulus as present supplies are consumed.

ANY PEACE that is established would be a permanent, far-reaching one, that after an early readjustment would be followed by a new era of general business recovery to unprecedented proportions.

Present low prices, 25 to 50 per cent lower than they have been for many years, will not be seen again for many years. Present very low interest rates will also rise to normal or even higher.

WHAT THIS MEANS TO YOU BY ACTING NOW IN BUYING A HOME—OR A LOT—AND BUILDING A HOME.

An increase of only 10 or 15 per cent in cost of building materials, and also lots, means from $1,000.00 to $1,500.00 more in the cost of a home. Increases beyond this amount are logical.

An increase in interest from present low rates of 4 1/2 per cent to only 6 per cent on a 15 to 20-year loan means an additional cost of $1,500.00 to $2,500.00.

THOSE WHO WANT NEW HOMES AND ARE ABLE TO BUY NOW HAVE EVERYTHING TO GAIN AND NOTHING TO LOSE.

CZECH STUDENTS MARCH IN PROTEST OF 'PROTECTORS'

Demonstration Occurs at Funeral of Youth Hurt Fatally During Clash With Police in October.

PRAGUE, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Approximately 2,000 Czech University students demonstrated against the German protectorate government today and sources close to the Czech University chancellery said 16 were arrested.

After the demonstration, police guarded Wenceslas Square and side streets throughout the day but there were no further incidents.

The university students attempted to escort the body of a youth who died of injuries received October 28, when Czechs, attempting to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the founding of their now dismembered republic clashed with police.

Police halted the students' attempt to march from the medical school, where their comrade's funeral had been held in the railway station. Then the students, singing Slavic songs, tried to enter Wenceslas square and Kiri's square but were dispersed.

Four persons were reported killed and numerous Czechs and Germans injured during the October 28 celebration, which had been banned by the German government. Scores were reported arrested.

NOT COWARDLY PEACE, DUCE TELLS STUDENTS

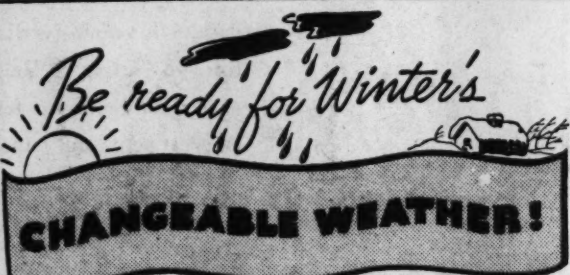

ROME, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini told Fascist University students today that "Italy's peace is not a cowardly peace, but an armed peace."

Mussolini spoke just two sentences to thousands of young Fascists who swarmed into the Piazza Venezia to cheer him during the celebration marking the opening of the university year. Il Duce appeared on a balcony and said:

"According to the Fascist style for precautionary reasons the musket stands beside the textbook. Fascist Italy's peace is not a cowardly peace but an armed peace."

WAR ON SEA CLAIMS TWO NEUTRAL SHIPS

Both Boats, Flying Lithuanian Flags, Sink After Striking Mines.

By The Associated Press.

The war on the waves cost neutral countries two more merchantmen yesterday, while a third non-combatant vessel sank from causes not connected with hostilities.

The British coastwise tanker Woodtown, 790 tons, went down after an explosion with the loss of nine lives. It was England's 67th loss since the war started. Neutrals have lost 37 ships; Germany 14 and France 7.

Two Lithuanian freighters, the 1,607-ton Panevezys and the 945-ton Nida, sank off the Estonian coast in what a Danish news agency described as mine explosions. These were the first ship losses suffered by Lithuania.

The 2,216-ton Greek steamer Georgios struck a half-submerged wreck off the east coast of England and sank after her crew of 22 had been rescued.

A recapitulation showed a total tonnage of 508,675 destroyed in two and one-half months of warfare and 1,884 lives known to have been lost.

The Nazis announced a German submarine had sunk 26,000 tons of enemy shipping singlehanded and came back to its home port with a prize ship.

The French night communique on activities at the western front told merely of "patrol encounters and local artillery fire."

AIR RAID WARNING SOUNDED IN LILLE

Minor Action on Western Front Reported.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Activity of actual war was confined in France today to a 30-minute air raid warning in the northern industrial town of Lille and minor action on the western front.

"Patrol encounters and local artillery activity," was all the night communique of the French high command had to say about the western front. The morning communique only "reduced activity."

Germany Hasn't as Many U-Boats As in 1917, Registrations Reveal 1939 Edition of 'Janes Fighting Ships' Shows Nazis Have About 84 Available; Book Gives Russia 150 With an Unknown 'Secret' Fleet.

By WALLACE CARROLL.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(UP)—Germany has a great handicap to overcome if she is to repeat her success of 1917 and carry out relentless U-boat warfare on the high seas, according to the 1939 edition of "Janes Fighting Ships," which appears tomorrow.

The naval annual, acknowledged authority on warships of the world, says the Reich has far to go to match the fleet of 111 U-boats used to launch the unrestricted submarine campaign against Britain in 1917.

Germany had 71 U-boats built and 28 under construction under her 1939 program when the war broke out on September 3, the annual said, but at least 15 of them were sunk in the first 45 days of the war.

Most of the sunken submarines were described as important ones of the ocean-going type.

Disregarding losses since October 15, the manual said, Germany appears to have only 84 U-boats, taking into account full completion of the 1939 program.

Reds Building 20 More.

The Soviet Union, it was said, has by far the largest submarine fleet, with approximately 150 under construction and at least 20 under construction. The total for the Soviets may be even higher, Janes said.

The annual repeated its contention of 1938 that the Soviets secretly have built a powerful fleet of submarines and torpedo boats for far eastern waters, sending them by way of the Arctic.

FINLAND ACCUSED OF ANTI-RED STAND

as the press campaign which preceded the Russian march into Poland last September 17.

The dispatch, distributed for publication in this morning's newspapers, based its tirade against the Finnish government for what it said was confiscation of an issue of the magazine Solchut. The magazine has printed articles friendly to the Russian government.

Tass Charges.

Tass charged that the Finnish army and press were instructed to "hate Russians," that teaching in the schools was conducted along the same lines, and that "the leaders of the anti-Soviet campaign of lies are the most reactionary elements who are dreaming of spreading the bounding of Finland all the way to the Urals (in Russia)."

Denying that Russia had presented "impossible demands" to the Finns in the recent negotiations that were suspended by Finland, the dispatch said the Finnish government was trying to mislead world public opinion by falsely declaring it wanted an agreement with Moscow.

Meanwhile, the Soviet press campaign extended to the United States for her "anxiety concerning Finland."

A. N. Bakh, oldest member of the Soviet parliament and member of the Academy of Sciences, in a letter to the newspaper Trud, organ of Soviet trade unions, declared the American government should show more concern over countries nearer home.

Asked Kremlin.

(United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt on October 12 asked the Kremlin on behalf of his government to refrain from any action which would upset peaceful Soviet-Finnish relations.)

Russia is not threatening anyone, Bakh said, but added that "Finnish reactionaries are calling for war against the U. S. S. R."

"It is common knowledge that the United States has been behaving throughout the Americas as if in their own home," he said.

"Under the flag of the Monroe Doctrine they are bossing the entire American continent. It also is common knowledge that whenever an American republic makes

The Swiss military command granted his plea that he be allowed to recross the frontier to rejoin his regiment.

Sub Drags Sailors Clinging to It Mile and Half to U. S. Rescue Ship

Baltimore Seaman Describes Dramatic Rescue That Followed Shelling of British Vessel and Swamping of Lifeboat.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15.—(UP)—A Baltimore seaman today described the dramatic rescue of a dozen British sailors who clung to the slippery side of a German submarine while it dragged them a mile and a half to safety.

Paul V. Gilbert, member of the crew of the Standard Oil tanker R. G. Stewart, said the rescued seamen were hurled into the ocean 200 miles off the English coast when the submarine sank their ship, the steamer Inverliffy.

The submarine, he said, came up beside the Stewart in a fog, fired a shot across its bow, and demanded that the tanker's captain prove his identity and show that the vessel was of American registry.

As the skipper made ready to obey, he said, the fog lifted and the Inverliffy was visible a mile and a half away, flying an Irish flag. The submarine promptly moved over to her.

Then, he continued, the U-boat fired five or six shots into the Inverliffy and ordered the crew off in three lifeboats. Meanwhile, he said, the freighter caught fire and the submarine began to tow one of the lifeboats.

"Somehow the boat was swamped," he continued. "The men thrashed about on the water until the submarine officers told them to cling to the side of the sub. Then the U-boat cruised over near to us so that one of our boats could rescue the men."

The Germans, he said, advised the sailors, hanging on the submarine's side while it cleaved through the water, that it would be necessary to submerge immediately if a British destroyer or plane sighted it.

The rescued men were later taken aboard the steamer City of Joliet, which proceeded to an unnamed port, he concluded.

BATTLESHIP HOOD SEEN OFF CANADA

Repulse, Renown Also Believed in Hunt for Nazi Pocket Battleships.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The New York Times says it was "unofficially but reliably reported" today that the British battle cruisers Hood, Repulse and Renown and other British capital ships "have cruised to the Canadian coast within recent weeks."

The Hood, 42,100 tons and the largest warship afloat, and other capital ships, the newspaper says, "have been reported off Halifax and other Canadian coastal points from time to time, it was said, but have apparently been operating singly and as detached units, not in a squadron."

If the reports of their presence in western Atlantic waters is true, the Times adds, "it is considered by observers here that the British placed considerable credence in the reports that two German pocket battleships—the Deutschland and the Admiral Scheer—had eluded British blockade and were at sea."

PROBE OF 'FAULTY' U. S. SHIPS ASKED

Wheeler Seeks To Place Responsibility for 'Top-Heavy' Boats.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, demanded today a congressional investigation to place responsibility for the construction of what he called "top-heavy" destroyers for the United States navy.

Asserting that he could see "no excuse whatever for a thing of this kind happening," Wheeler said he thought the facts ought to be laid before Congress before it votes on new defense appropriations.

Acting Secretary Charles Edison acknowledged recently that the navy had found that some of its newest type destroyers lacked sufficient stability.

"They are eminently satisfactory, as good as we or anybody else has got," he said. "They are at sea in all kinds of rough weather in the neutrality patrol and none has turned over."

Touching on other subjects at a press conference, Edison hinted that the government is considering building a new-type ship capable of combating the "pocket battleships" such as the Deutschland and the Admiral Scheer.

He disclosed that while studying the developments of the European war, the navy's general board is holding up a final decision on the design of two cruisers for which Congress already has appropriated money. The ships are the Columbia and Cleveland.

"We think better warship types are possible," he said in commenting on the raiding Nazi warships. Two of Germany's three hybrid "pocket battleships" have been wrecking the British and French cruisers and too fast for virtually all battleships.

Before the evening express left for Rome, I had half an hour to spare, which I filled by buying a copy of Mussolini's brother's paper, the Giornale d'Italia, and read it sitting on a cane chair at an outdoor table of a little cafe opposite the station, sipping a cup of chocolate and small hot rum buns.

I had just finished the French war communique which said nothing had happened on the Western Front when I noticed that a little seven-year-old girl with ragged, dirty clothes had stopped in front of my table and was looking at me with big wistful eyes. She did not say anything because, as you will remember, Fascism has abolished begging. I did not give her anything because she was so much more ragged and dirty than the rest of the Italian kids playing along the sidewalk that her disreputable costume was too obviously a plant. Pretty soon the owner of the cafe came out and shoed her away.

So then I remembered the young man who spoke such excellent English, and who button-holed me on the pier to tell me if I would let him conduct me, he would save me much money in showing me how to buy my ticket direct from Naples to the Brenner Pass into Germany, with a stop-over in Rome. The young man did exactly what he said he would, and also, when he found out I was American, explained that the Italian people did not like the Germans, but that in this war intended to stay neutral and make a lot of dough by selling to both sides.

But, he said that the true sympathies of the Italian people, in White Finds Fascists Have Accomplished No More in Public Building Program Than United States Has in Similar Period.

ROME, Italy.—(Via Airmail.)

It has been 13 years since I last visited Italy, and during this interval the Fascists have put up beautiful public buildings in Naples and Rome, which, frankly, knock your eye out. During these same 13 years New York city and Emporia, Kan., have also knocked your eye out with Empire State buildings, Municipal auditoriums and modern store fronts, and they have done it without abolishing elections or pumping liberals full of castor oil. I only want to be fair and factual; the Fascists with their uniforms and castor oil have made about as much progress but no more.

When you walk down the gangplank at Naples you enter a spacious, impressive and beautiful marble structure which makes any of the landing piers in New York harbor look like a cattle shed. So you say the Italians are putting their best foot forward for the tourists. So I say I presently went to the Naples general post office, where tourists seldom go, to see about transatlantic air mail rates and schedules. And this building was also magnificent in marble, and far superior in line and design to any post office I have seen in America.

He said he had heard that America also was sympathetic to them, and planned to make even more dough. Then he got sorer than a crutch when I gave him only the legal fee for his admittedly valuable services.

But my theory is that when fine things about the great democracies should be said, I can say them myself and have no need to pay Italians to say them.

Mussolini may have abolished begging, but Naples, when you scratch its new chromium and marble veneer, will always be Naples. However, I think he has come as near to the goal as any one could expect in a single generation. At least nobody showed me an ulcer.

The Fascists have abolished begging in Naples and the swarms of them who used to meet you at the pier and offer to show you their ulcers have vanished. You are met instead by swarms of uniformed guides, each given an official number, who offer, at a fee set by the government, to show you the city of Naples.

BOMBERS ARRIVE AT RIO DE JANEIRO

Roosevelt Sends Brazil the Good Wishes of U. S.; Recalls His Visit.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Five United States army bombers, bearing a message of felicitation from President Roosevelt to President Getulio Vargas, arrived here today to take part in the celebration of Brazil's 50th anniversary as a republic.

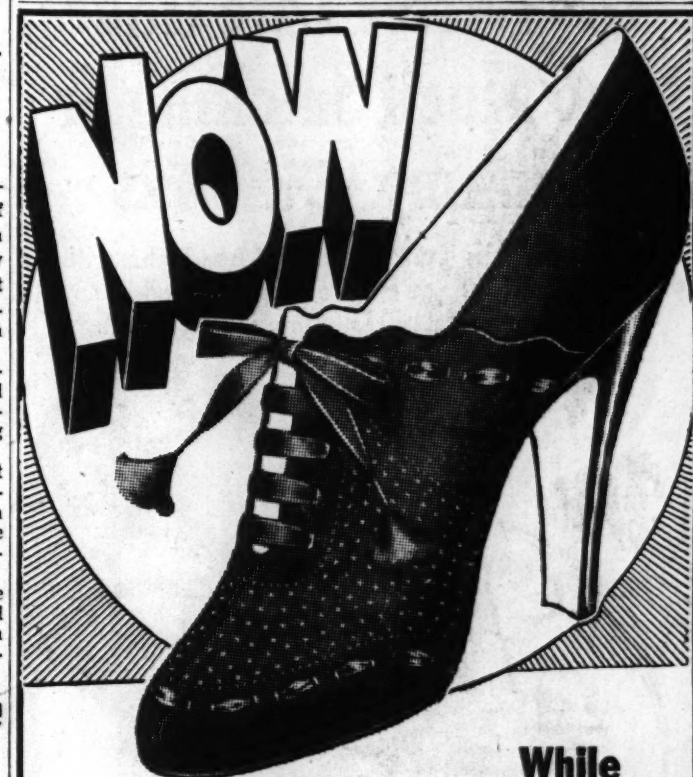

Mr. Roosevelt's message recalled his visit here in 1936 and declared the mutual friendships of the two countries was based on mutual respect and the right of New World nations to realize their destiny without extraneous interference.

The planes flew to Rio de Janeiro from Asuncion, Paraguay. A sixth plane was left behind because it was damaged in attempting to take off and a seventh landed at Porto Alegre, 400 miles from here because of fuel shortages.

LYLE WILL SEEK TO ABANDON FARM IN DEKALB COUNTY

$25,000 Annual Saving for City Over Period of Years Is Seen If Prison Camp Is Scrapped.

Abandonment of the 349-acre city prison farm in DeKalb county and removal of all prisoners to the Atlanta police station to save at least $25,000 a year over a period of years will be proposed to city council Monday, Councilman George B. Lyle, former chairman of the prison farm committee for six years, announced yesterday.

Contending that the cost of operating the prison farm is excessive and is "increasing progressively," Lyle said that the projected acquisition of another 184 acres at a cost of $12,880 is "unwise and means the concentration of about 150 negro men prisoners in an area which is recognized as a white neighborhood."

His resolution will go to the finance committee of council for study and report.

Abandonment of the prison expansion plan follows a protest filed by citizens of the Mills district in DeKalb county, near where it was planned to purchase the additional 184 acres.

A citizens' committee, headed by Frank Carroll and supported by County Commissioner Scott Candler and Superintendent of Schools William Rainey, opposed the farm being adjacent to the West Side school grounds and said the proposal would decrease property valuation in one of the leading dairy production sections in the southeast.

Lyle's resolution recites that the city this year is expending $16,815.55 in salaries for half a dozen employees and other farm costs, "which could be saved," and points out that total cost of operating the prison and farm department of the municipality for the current year is $103,099.37 as compared to $85,649.57 for 1938, an increase of $17,449.80.

He estimated the total value of vegetables produced at $6,000, thus showing an actual money loss for 1939 of more than $7,000 for the farm as it now stands.

In addition, Lyle's resolution provides that negro women prisoners be placed on the fourth floor of the present city jail, that the fifth floor, now unused, be fitted to provide quarters for white women, that suitable quarters be provided adjacent to the police station.

Hawaiian Roads Sprout Posies Systematically

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Color schemes, familiar in interior decoration and women's clothing, have been applied to landscaping of streets and highways in Hawaii, a delegate to the annual convention of the American Automobile Association reported today.

Miss Roberta Clark said the outdoor circle of Honolulu, a 27-year-old women's organization, had succeeded in having one thoroughfare planted in red flowers, for example, another in blue, and so on through the spectrum.

Also as a result of the circle's efforts, she said, no billboards appear on any highways.

station for the care of white men prisoners, negro men, and a laundry and kitchen, that all prisoners be placed under the active control and supervision of the chief of police and the police committee.

Violation Charged.

Charges that 180 tons of silage spoiled this year and that a mule and a cow valued at $220 died, are contained in the Lyle resolution, which also held that the city is violating city ordinances in allowing prisoners to can food without having certificates of physicians showing they are free of contagious social diseases. He said foods are canned one day and opened and served the next "for the purpose of making a good canning record."

He and other members of general council from the DeKalb section of Atlanta are expected to join a large delegation of DeKalb county citizens and officials in opposing the proposed purchase of the new prison tract before the finance committee at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The finance committee recommended the purchase favorably, but because of the pressure of DeKalb citizens it was referred back to the finance group by city council for a public hearing.

WOMAN WHO DROWNED SON FREE ON PAROLE

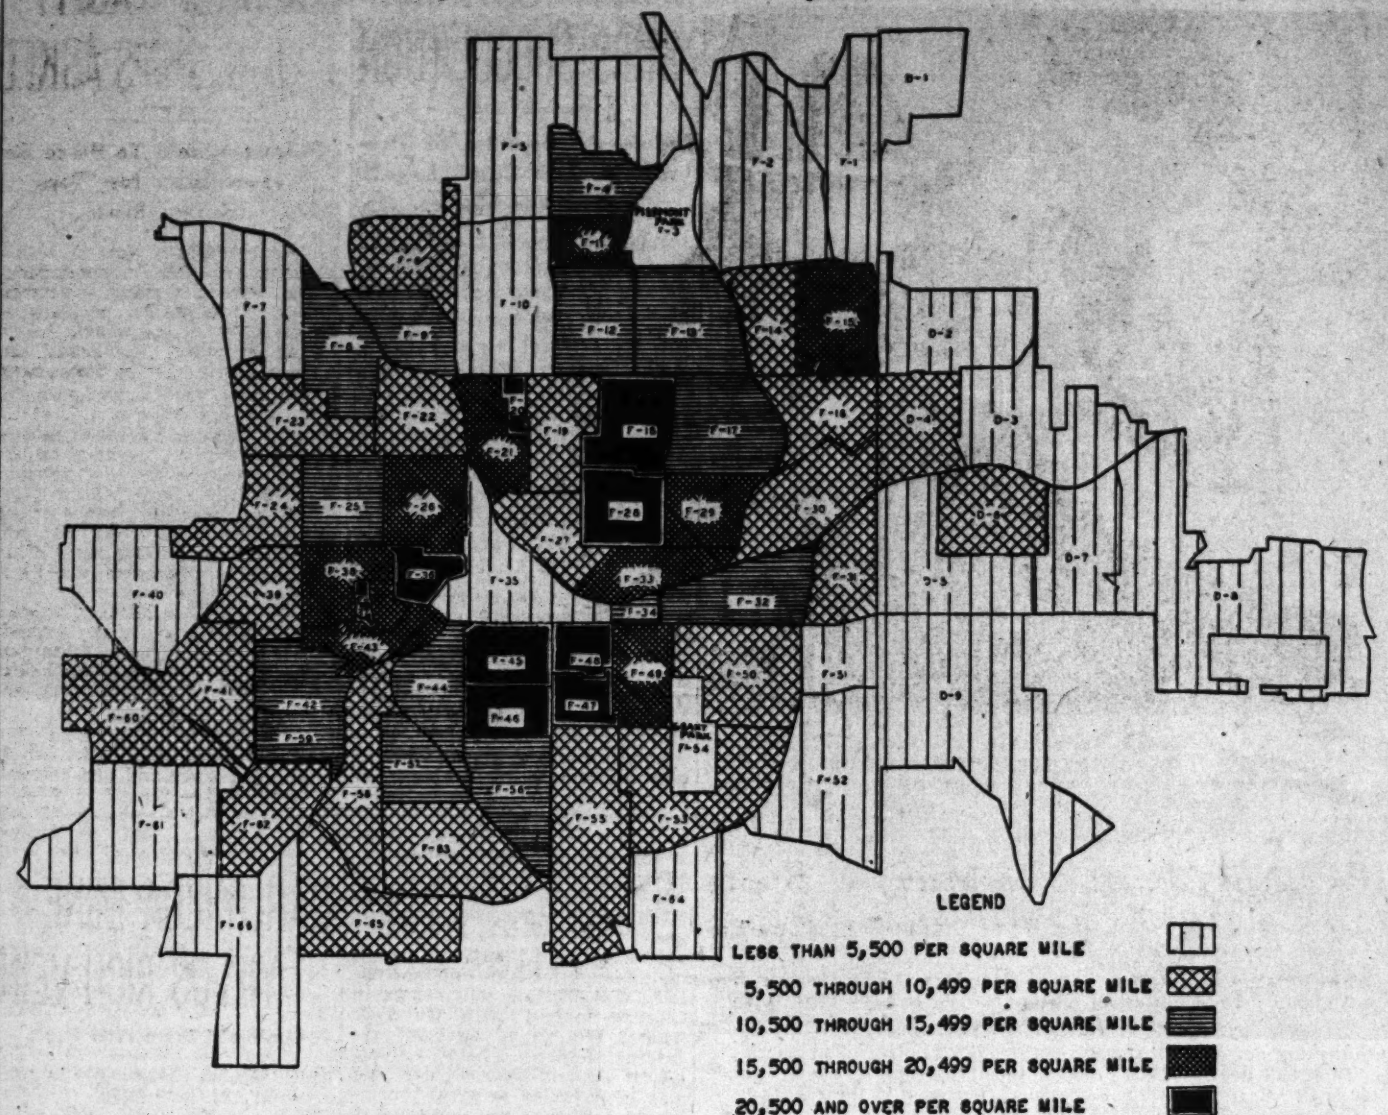

LIMA, Ohio, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Pretty Velma Baker Fink, adjudged temporarily insane after she drowned her 10-week-old son, Haldon, in a creek near Clyde last June 13, was freed from the Lima State Hospital for Criminal Insane on parole today.

The 22-year-old divorcee was placed under the supervision of her family physician after hospital officials testified at a hearing that she is now sane. There was no opposition to her release.

LIONS' DISTRICT RALLY.

Map Showing Density of Atlanta's Population as Charted by WPA

Population density of Atlanta ranges from less than 5,500 to more than 20,500 persons per square mile, as shown by one of the many maps incorporated in the WPA's recently-completed survey of the city, its composition, its habits, and its customs. Called the "Social and Economic Pattern of Atlanta, Georgia," the volume took three years to compile, and runs the gamut from the purchasing power of each of the city's census tracts to the percentage of births at Grady hospital per census tract to the percentage of total births. One of the most exhaustive studies of its kind ever made, it will be placed in the public and school libraries of the city. Additional maps which present the analysis will be printed in The Constitution.

MISS SHEPPERSON RESIGNS WPA POST

ing authority, he has been with federal relief administrations in the state in an official capacity since 1933.

As the housing authority's first technical director, MacDougall had supervision over the plans for Clark Howell Homes and other slum clearance, rehousing projects soon to go under construction.

Though Miss Shepperson's resignation had been rumored often in the last year, its confirmation by The Constitution came as a surprise to many of her office associates.

Her move climaxes more than 11 years work in Georgia. She came here in 1928 as director of the children's bureau of the state department of public welfare, and remained in that position until 1931 when she was named executive secretary of the welfare department.

In 1933 she was appointed executive secretary of the Georgia Emergency Relief Commission, a state body that administered federal relief funds. In November 15 of the same year, she was named executive secretary of the GERC's successor, the Civil Works Administration, and in January, 1934, state administrator of the CWA's successor, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. In May, 1935, she was named state administrator of the Works Progress Administration, and held the job through the various ups and downs of the agency through its recent emergence as the Works Projects Administration.

One of her most outstanding contributions to the state has been her work as president and chairman of the board of the Pine Mountain Valley Rural Community Corporation, probably America's most successful example of rural resettlement and rehabilitation work.

Native of Virginia. Born in Charlotte county, Virginia, she was educated at Miss Ellett's in Richmond; the Virginia State Teachers' College and the New York School of Social Work.

Returning to Virginia, she taught school for six years, the majority of the time in the high schools of Richmond. Resigning her teacher's position, she spent the three and a half years before the World War with the Associated Charities in Washington, and then went to work with the War Department.

In 1920, 1921 and 1922, Miss Shepperson was with the Red Cross—as field representative with headquarters in New Orleans and as organizer of child health clinics in the Baltic states.

Later she made a social survey of Rochester, N. Y., and Chattanooga for the Child Welfare League of America, and in 1923 organized the children's bureau of the Virginia State Department of Public Welfare, which she headed until she came to Georgia.

Recently named vice chairman of the committee of public welfare of the National Conference of Social Workers, Miss Shepperson is a former president of the Georgia Conference of Social Workers, and is an active or former committee member of the following organizations: The American Public Welfare Association; Child Welfare League of America; American Association of Social Workers; National Conference of Social Work, and the Family Welfare Association of America.

FORESTRY HEARING ENDS; FUN STARTS

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 15.—(AP)—After hearing nearly two score witnesses in a two-day session here on problems of the southern forestry industry, the joint congressional committee adjourned this afternoon and sailed at dusk on three yachts to enjoy fishing in the Gulf of Mexico at dawn tomorrow and to make a tour of Mobile harbor and bay.

The committee pushed its hearing along rapidly today and after taking testimony from about 20 witnesses, found it unnecessary to hold an afternoon session to complete its work.

HAPPY MORNINGS NOW After Late Hours—Too Much Festivity

"Alkalize" upsetting stomach acids this amazing Phillips' way

Wake up clear-headed and peppy...no "morning-after" acid upsets or headache.

If you over-indulge—eat or drink too much—stay out all hours...don't "pay the piper" in the morning. Instead of a session of OVER-ACIDITY of the stomach that can get you really down and spoil the whole next day, do this:

Follow the routine in the pictures here...with Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia...one of the most remarkable stomach alkalizers known. Just two tablespoonfuls at bedtime and two in the morning with your orange juice...that's all. But the results: You'll be on top of the world when you wake up! No nausea, no terrible acid upsets.

You'll feel wonderful in the morning and do a swell job.

It's wonderful. Try this remarkable method. See for yourself what it does. You can get Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in either liquid or tablet form at any drug store. Ask for it by its full name and check the words "Genuine Phillips'" on the blue package.

Huge Increase in Mileage Per Gallon Is Seen

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—An automotive scientist asserted tonight that experiments foreshadowed developments which would give the motorist 50 per cent more mileage to a gallon of gasoline.

Dr. Graham Edgar, of New York, vice president and research director of Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, told the Institute of Petroleum that the experiments had been carried out to determine the possibilities of increasing compression ratio under conditions in which the anti-knock value of the fuel was no longer the limiting factor.

Dr. Edgar said also that supercharging, generally applied so far only to aircraft, opened another field of opportunity for the utilization of fuels of high anti-knock value by the automobile engine.

NAZI STEEL KING IN SWITZERLAND

His Lips Are Sealed Concerning Trip.

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Fritz Thyssen, German steel magnate of the Ruhr and one of the chief backers of Nazism during the rise of Adolf Hitler, was located today at the Locarno hotel where he arrived from Germany three days ago.

"I infinitely regret I am unable to give the information you request," Thyssen telegraphed in answer to a request for information as to reasons for his departure from Germany.

It was pointed out his lips were sealed on things political by the laws of neutral Switzerland which require all foreign residents to remain silent on politics.

Is Scarlett's 'Reincarnation' Contemplated?

In the midst of all the future attendant on plans for the world premiere here next month of the film version of "Gone With the Wind," there loomed yesterday the possibility of a sequel to Margaret Mitchell's world famous novel.

One thing has been definitely established. It will not be written by Miss Mitchell. She has no idea what happened to Scarlett and Rhett and doesn't intend to try and find out.

But from Hollywood there are reports that if she declines to accede to a request from David O. Selznick for more biographical data on two of the south's most famous lovers, the job is going to be turned over to the corps of writers connected with the Selznick International Studios.

TWO SCHOOLS, CHURCH DESTROYED BY BLAZE

METTER, Ga., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Two school buildings and a church were destroyed by fire this morning at Aline, about six miles west of here.

The fire started on the roof of one of the school buildings, quickly spread to the other school, and then to the Mount Olive Primitive Baptist church, which was directly in the path of the flames.

None of the 250 school children in attendance were injured. All buildings were of frame construction, and one of the schools was practically new. Whether or not they were insured could not be learned today.

SALES SOARING!

America takes 1940 PACKARD to its heart!

DELIVERIES MADE THIS YEAR

ORDERS ON HAND THIS YEAR

LAST YEAR

MORE THAN DOUBLE!

MORE THAN DOUBLE!

In the 12-week period from the new 1940 model announcement through Oct. 31, more than twice as many Packards have been delivered to delighted owners as in same period last year.

Orders now on hand also exceed the figure for Packards at this same period a year ago more than 2 to 1. Yet, with all this demand, prompt deliveries are still assured.

YES, THE 1940 PACKARD proved an overnight hit—and the cheers (and sales) keep rising!

And small wonder, for a car as good as this new streamlined Packard spreads its own good news with every turn of the wheels. All sales records indicate that it's just what people wanted at a price that's better than right—the best of all possible reasons for dropping run-of-the-road cars.

Car buyers all over America have discovered—and quickly, too—that these new 1940 Packards are not only great cars, incredibly good, a joy to look at and a thrill to drive...

BUT—they have also discovered that a big Packard can be bought for little more than the smallest and cheapest cars!

To get a rough idea of what has happened, look at the charts at the left.

If this doesn't indicate a great nation-wide swing to Packard, then figures mean nothing! Packard sales are up 105 per cent—more than 2 to 1 ahead of sales a year ago!

So...take time out, today, to delight your soul with this new Packard's stirring new lines, fiery performance, striking economy and arm-chair comfort on the road! And despite the demand, you can get prompt delivery!

NEW OIL IS POURED ON MILLICAN FIRE BY H. B. EDWARDS

Senator Can't Inflict 'Whipping Boss' Tactics on State Administration, Rivers Flares.

Representative H. B. Edwards and Governor Rivers poured fresh declarations yesterday into a political fire generated by a proposed gasoline tax refund inquiry. The Governor declared Senator Everett Millican could not "intimidate" the state through "whipping boss" tactics into halting an investigation of such refunds.

At Valdosta, Representative Edwards asserted the Governor had opposed repeal of the gasoline tax rebate.

Continues Attack. Rivers, continuing his attack upon Millican, Fulton county senator, whom he accused Tuesday of supporting legislation permitting Georgia taxpayers to be "milked" of $500,000 in the refunds since 1937, said:

"Millican has not been able to dictate to the state administration in matters affecting Atlanta and Fulton county; nor will he ever be able to do so long as I am Governor. Neither can he inflict his political 'whipping boss' tactics upon the state administration."

"Certainly, he cannot intimidate the administration into calling off an investigation (the state) Revenue Department is making into the gasoline records of the Gulf Oil Company."

Exception Told. Millican is a division official of the oil concern. Gasoline companies are allowed a 1 per cent rebate on gasoline tax collections to cover evaporation and cost of collecting the state's 6-cent tax.

Representative Edwards charged that Governor Rivers fought Edwards' proposed repeal of the tax rebate at the 1939 legislative session.

"My bill was immediately attacked by Governor Rivers and his aides and friends in the general assembly," the Lowndes county representative said. "Thus the bill was defeated."

Tax Refund Law. The gas tax refund law, passed in 1937, allows oil companies a "special privilege," which is denied every citizen and every other company in Georgia," Edwards asserted.

The Governor's supplementary statement said he intended no reflection on Atlanta and Fulton officials in designating Millican as "the boss of Atlanta." He mentioned Mayor William B. Hartsfield, "who is my friend."

The county commission, were put up by the state before Judge Pomeroy recessed court early last night and sent the jury to a hotel for the night. The trial is expected to last several days.

After Fling had identified the various official records authorizing and recording the purchase of the park and testified that George F. Longino, former county commissioner, had made the motion to buy the land, Smith took the stand.

He said Gullatt got a blank loan deed from him in 1937 and filled it out. Later he signed two statements transferring the loan deed back to Gullatt, he said. He also transferred back to the assessor a promissory note signed by Gullatt acknowledging indebtedness to Smith's company for $7,445. He testified Gullatt did not owe the company or him anything.

Defense Explanation. Allen, in telling the jury the defense plans following Solicitor General John A. Boykin's preliminary outline of the state's case, asserted that the issuance and transfer of the loan deed and note was merely a transaction to get the Dixie Lakes property title back into Gullatt's name after it had been sold to the Dixie Lakes Country Club Company, which Gullatt headed.

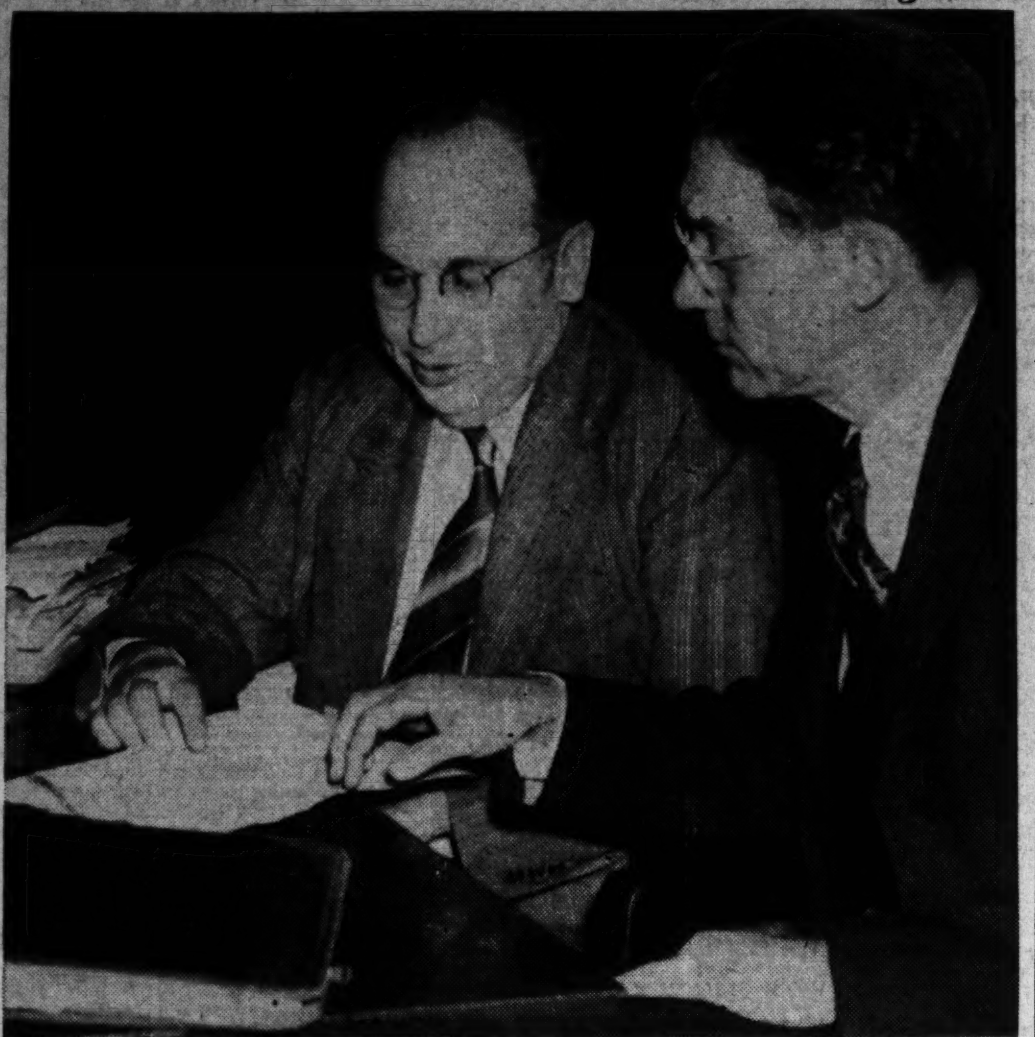

Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews and Boykin sought to show by testimony and documents that the loan deed and note were executed merely to influence the county commissioners as to the value of the land.

"I remember that one of the commissioners, Ed Almand I think it was, said that the property was surely worth the amount of the outstanding loan against it," Adams recalled as he told the jury about the commission meeting when the decision to buy Dixie Lakes was made.

"Worth Three Times More." He said that other land purchased by the county was appraised and added that he had insisted on an appraisal when the county sold a plot on Murphy avenue, thus obtaining $3,000 more than the price offered, but Judge Pomeroy ruled this out.

The defense sought to show in cross examinations that the Dixie

Scenes as Gullatt Goes on Trial in Swindling Case

Homer Gullatt (left), Fulton county tax assessor, discussed court strategy as his trial on charges of cheating and swindling the county out of nearly $7,800 proceeds in Fulton superior court. His lawyer, H. A. Allen, is shown. Gullatt's sale of the Dixie Lakes park property to the county in 1937 is under fire, with the state charging he used a fake loan to influence county commissioners as to the land's value.

Two of Fulton county's commissioners and one ex-commissioner were present yesterday in superior court as the trial of C. Homer Gullatt opened. Only Dr. Charles R. Adams, left, was called upon to testify, as the trial began slowly. Others in the picture are Ed L. Almand, center, and former Commissioner George Longino, right.

Lakes land was improved and worth "three times" what the county paid for it." The state charges that Gullatt swindled the county out of $3,445 and $372.25 interest by falsely representing the value.

The maximum punishment for the cheating and swindling charges, upon conviction, is 12 months on public works, six months in jail and a $1,000 fine. The jury is composed of the following: J. S. M'NUTT FOOTWORK STIRS SPECULATION

Indorses Objective of Providing Low-Cost Legal Service for Masses.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(UP)—The footwork of Paul V. McNutt, candidate for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination, and that of his chief campaign manager, Frank McHale, aroused new interest among experts today in the handsome Hoosier's battle for the coveted honor.

In his capacity as federal security administrator, McNutt indorsed in a speech before the National Lawyers' Guild its objective of providing low-cost legal services to America's masses. He coupled this assertion with a strong demand for protection of civil rights in times of national emergency.

Observers were quick to interpret McNutt's declarations as a bid for support from liberals, especially the extreme liberals in the New Deal who have made no secret of their opposition to his candidacy. One of the complaints is that McNutt disregarded labor's civil rights by calling on state troops in strike situations when he was governor of Indiana.

Experts were interested also in the announcement in Indianapolis, Ind., that McHale will confer in Chicago tonight with Governor Leonard P. Phibbs of Oklahoma regarding McNutt's candidacy. Phillips is an anti-New Dealer and may be expected to wield considerable influence on the type of delegates who will comprise the Democratic delegation from his state to the 1940 convention.

LADY DIANA JUMPS AT CAMERA, BULBS

speaks softly but very distinctly. Her accent, of course, is English, but not so much so that her words sound strange or affected.

She is thoroughly charming and completely at home with strangers, and although she declared that she was extremely bad about giving interviews she chatted about her trip and her impressions of "beautiful America" with perfect ease.

She said she was not at all good about posing for photographs, and although she was most gracious about having pictures made, it was obvious that she was a little disturbed by flash bulbs. She tried to prepare herself for the sudden light, but when the bulb went off she jumped in spite of herself. And the resulting photograph looked a little startled.

Lady Diana was in Atlanta with her husband who acted last night at Agnes Scott College. The famous couple were guests of the college at luncheon yesterday and again at a reception following the lecture.

The enthusiasm of the Englishwoman was boundless when she talked of southern girls' colleges. She was greatly impressed by the intelligence and good looks of young southern women in the schools where the tour has already taken them. She was disinterested, however, that she has had so little opportunity really to see America on this trip.

"We are living on trains," she wailed, "and although I adore trains because one is so private and can't be bothered by the telephone, still I want to stop long enough to know the cities we visit."

Read "Gone With the Wind." This is her first trip to Atlanta. "My knowledge of the early Atlanta is pretty thorough, however, because I read 'Gone With the Wind' which made the city very real to me," she said.

"I was touched very deeply by the book and for days after I finished reading it I did a great deal more worrying about the people in the novel than I did about my own family," she admitted with a laugh.

She was not particularly pleased with the choice of an English actress for Scarlett. "Surely, there are enough American girls to find the perfect one for the part. But I suppose that is just another illustration of the peculiar way Hollywood does things. They get an American to play Queen Elizabeth and make an English girl into an American."

As an actress, Lady Diana was particularly concerned about the accent to be used by Vivien Leigh in the film. The visitor realized the importance of the accent even more than the ordinary person. "I just hope they don't make her talk like most supposedly southern people which we have heard in the movies," she said.

Lady Diana is very much concerned about her homeland. She has England constantly in her mind. "We were very sad when we left England," she said, "but yet we were rather relieved. We thought for a time we would have to cancel the tour, but we found that we could get messages on the Manhattan and so we came along. I thought I should be frightened to death the entire voyage, but after we got on the seas and had floodlights turned on the Stars and Stripes which were painted all over the boat we were comforted very much."

Armed Guards Bar Intruders From Famous Mine

For years the famous Calhoun mine near Dahlonega has gone unguarded, but since the discovery of a new gold strike two guards are on duty with shotguns to keep out intruders. The mine is situated three and one-half miles south of Dahlonega. Large-scale operations with modern machinery are to begin in a few weeks, according to the prospectors. The lode is said to be the richest found in Georgia in 25 years.

DAHLONEGA MINE YIELDS RICH VEIN

which yielded $340,000,000 in gold between 1850 and 1890.

There was a time when Dahlonega was one of the gold-mining centers of America. The precious metal poured from the earth in such quantities that a United States mint was established there in 1838. The old-timers remember "back when" but they are not convinced, however, that history is repeating itself in the new discovery. They turn the pieces of ore over in their hands, scratch their heads and say, "It looks pretty good." But they are biding their time. These north Georgia mountaineers are not excited.

Discoverer Enthusiastic.

On the other hand, Major Graham Dugas, a veteran miner who has been searching the hills for gold for the past 15 years, is enthusiastic and thinks that at last he has hit the "real pay dirt." He is heading the operations in the century-old mine and takes pride in exhibiting pans of the valuable ore which he says averages around $200 to the 12-pound pan.

The discovery will not attract prospectors and create another gold rush, however. It is adapted only to modern mining methods. Dugas says large-scale operations will begin within the next few weeks.

With the same gusto Dugas takes you down into the mine, a gaping hole which runs 150 feet back into the side of a mountain. He points to the yellow vein, which is two to three inches wide, and exclaims that there is no telling how far back it goes.

Some Are Half-Gold.

He picks up pieces of ore, holds them out and tells you that he has found some similar pieces that are one-half gold. But he will not say how much of the precious metal he has placed in bank vaults.

Two guards—sometimes three—stand at the entrance of the shaft with shotguns in their hands, lest unwelcome visitors find their way into the mine and escape with some of the valuable ore. The guards are at their posts night and day.

As an exhibition, Dugas had two of his men place dynamite in the rock and blast the ore. This often liberates large quantities of gold. He estimated that a few days ago as much as $15,000 worth of yellow metal was lying around on the floor of the shaft. This explains, he said, why he must take such great precautions against intruders.

Equipment Ordered. The veteran miner said he had ordered a machine for crushing the ore and added he expected it to arrive in about 10 days.

Senator John C. Calhoun, the famous South Carolina orator and statesman, was the first to operate the mine back about 1828 or 1830. He used some of his slaves in the operations. He came into possession of the property through a land grant, and it has changed hands only four times.

Even today as you walk through the dark, yawning cavern you can see large overhanging timbers which Dugas said were placed in the mine by Calhoun's men.

Dugas, who is a former representative from White county, said he discovered the rich vein in attempting to go below the old Calhoun "shoot." He added, however, that it was not "entirely by chance" that he came upon the vein. He was expecting to find something, he said.

'GONE WITH THE WIND' COSTUMES SOUGHT

ta Junior Leaguers a bit jittery about assuming responsibility for the costumes, the Atlanta Junior League will see at least 15 of the more beautiful creations at the premiere and ball, and these same costumes the Junior Leaguers wear December 14 may come back to Atlanta to stay when "Gone With the Wind" road show days are over.

Walter Plunkett, one of the most famous Hollywood designers, created the costumes after drawing more than 400 sketches. His task was complicated by the historic fact that during the 11 years covered by the events described in the book, men's and women's fashions underwent three complete changes. He thus had to recreate not only the fashions of the hoop-skirt era before the war, but the makeshift models of the poverty-stricken war years and the burlesque modes of the reconstruction period.

Seventy years ago there were approximately 3 mines operated in the Dahlonega region, yielding an estimated $1,000,000 annually. Since that time many hopeful prospectors have taken their picks and shovels and roamed the mountains in hope of finding their pot of gold.

Dahlonega takes its name from an Indian word "Talonega" meaning yellow or gold, and no doubt the optimistic will continue to delve into the earth in search of their fortunes. Perhaps there's something in the old Indian name that attracts the prospectors.

On one thing all seem agreed. At least 15 of the original costumes will be on display—either on the person of some Junior Leaguer or under glass—during the ball.

Select highly valued these creations and will not permit any to be shipped here for the ball until satisfactory arrangements about insuring them have been made. Careful selection will have to be made as to who wears the gowns, it was pointed out. The girls will have to be perfect fits, for Mr. Selznick isn't at all certain in his mind that the modern miss would have the same success Scarlett did in winking her

Including all the research necessary to uncover a real counterpart of the dress of drapes, trimmed in lace from curtains, with buttons of persimmon seed and hat of palmetto, which Miss Mitchell's Scarlett wore during blockade days, it was estimated that the events described in the book, men's and women's fashions underwent three complete changes. WATER RECEIPTS FOR LAST MONTH SET 1939 RECORD

General Manager Smith Recites Purification Process for Benefit of Council Group.

The Atlanta Waterworks Department collected $220,437.17 for the 1,103,600,000 gallons of water it pumped into Atlanta last month, according to a report submitted by W. Zode Smith, general manager, to council's water committee.

Despite the advent of cooler weather, October receipts exceeded those of any month thus far this year, and collections for the first ten months of 1939 were $2,147,135.02, which was $41,900.07 in excess of the corresponding period of 1938. The largest previous month's collections this year was September, with $220,062.47.

Smith also gave committee members an explanation of the chemical treatment of Atlanta's water, "which makes it the purest and softest and smoothest in this section of the world."

"We used a total of 80.8 tons of chemicals last month and they cost $4,237 the way we buy them, in quantity lots," he said. "The first operation consumed 62,100 pounds of filter alum in the settling basins as the water was pumped from the Chattahoochee river and the purification process was begun.

"Next were added 52,500 pounds of lime to alkalize the water and keep it from having an acid taste after the alum treatment. Then came 11,605 pounds of liquid chlorine and 19,492 pounds of two per cent ammonia in combination for sterilization. Believe it or not, we used 15,550 pounds of charcoal to absorb impurities and then came 400 pounds of copper sulphate to add sweetness."

MISSING SISTERS ARE SOUGHT HERE

War Veterans' Chief Gets Request for Help.

W. L. Van Dyke, head of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Atlanta, has been requested to help find the sisters of Thomas Huggins—Mattie Huggins, about 49 years old, now married, and Belle Huggins, about 35, wife of a World War aviator named McCann.

Both were thought to be living in Atlanta. Anyone knowing their whereabouts was requested yesterday to communicate with G. A. Lowery, adjutant, Oroville Post No. 1747, V. F. W., Oroville, Cal., or Mr. Van Dyke.

RIALTO HELD OVER 5th WEEK

Put a Caption on This Picture—Win Cash

Here's the fourth and last picture in the headline contest now being conducted by The Constitution and Loew's Grand theater. If you can select a suitable caption for this scene from the new M-G-M comedy starring Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Lew Ayres, you may win one of the many prizes being offered in the contest. See the accompanying story for details.

Today's 'Deadline' for Headlines In 'Remember' Caption Contest

Last Picture of Series Appears on This Page; Put a 'Head' on It With Words Chipped From Constitution and You May Win Cash or Tickets.

Last call for headline contest fans!

If you want to be one of the winners in the contest being conducted this week by Loew's Grand theater and The Constitution, lose no time in sending in your final entries. The last picture in the contest appears today and the complete list of winners will be published Sunday.

If you haven't yet entered the contest, it's still not too late to do so.

Rules are simple:

Clip Words From Paper.

Each day The Constitution has been publishing a scene from the new M-G-M comedy romance, "Remember," starring Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Lew Ayres. Contestants are asked to clip from the pages of The Constitution a suitable caption for the "Remember" scenes. Complete headlines may be used, or contestants may cut out single words and phrases and paste them together to form any caption they wish. The most important point is that the finished caption be appropriate for the picture.

For the best caption for each day's picture The Constitution and Loew's are awarding seven daily prizes, headed by a first cash prize of $5. Contestants need submit only one picture to win a daily prize, but for those desiring to enter the entire set, a grand weekly prize of $12.50 is to be awarded the person submitting the best complete set of four pictures.

The deadline for entering the fourth and last picture which accompanies this story is midnight tonight. Address all entries to the Contest Editor, Atlanta Constitution.

Tuesday's Winners.

Winners for Tuesday's picture were: First prize, Mrs. Julian Still, 1708 Peachtree road, N. W., apartment 18; second prize, Charles H. Chase Jr., 105 Rumson road, N. E., apartment 17.

Passes to see "Remember," which opened today at Loew's Grand, have been awarded to Mrs. G. W. Darden, 294 Prince avenue, Athens; Mrs. Leila S. Willis, Veterans' Administration, Atlanta; Mrs. O. E. Lewis, 100 Inman circle, N. E.; Mrs. Tom Foster, 660 Lawton street, S. W.; and Virginia Bradley, 832 Berne street, S. E.

TICKET SALE OPENS MONDAY FOR BALL

None Will Be Sold for 'Gone With Wind' Affair Until Then.

No tickets will be sold and no reservations will be made for the Junior League's "Gone With the Wind" ball December 14 until the League's office at 52 Broad street is opened at 9 o'clock Monday morning, it was announced yesterday.

Tickets for the few remaining seats in the dress circle will be $3.50 and the same price will be charged for the 1,800 arena seats. Tickets for the gallery will be $2. All tickets entitle holders to dancing following the entertainment features. The arena seats will be removed as soon as the entertainment program is completed. All persons attending will be expected to wear costumes of the period or formal evening dress.

Woman Forgets Name Of Mate, Wedding Date

VALPARAISO, Ind., Nov. 15.—(AP)—A Chicago woman wrote County Clerk Lewis Keller to ask for her marriage license certificate.

She said she was married in 1938, but couldn't remember the man's name nor the exact date. "It was somewhere during the month of August," she wrote, "and his first name was Eddie."

The clerk couldn't find any record of the license.

GIRL SCOUTS HELP SALLY SAVER COOK

Mothers Are Guests at Party; Sandwich Spreads, Cookies on Menu.

An innovation in cooking school procedure by having small informal classes was introduced by Sally Saver, food authority of The Constitution, yesterday at the cooking class held for the Girl Scout troop of the Church of Our Savior, the girl's mothers and other guests, at the Georgia Power Company Inman Park store.

The girls enthusiastically joined in the class, and helped prepare the simple party food, which they then served to the other guests.

This was the first of a series of classes, sponsored by The Constitution, in response to requests to have Miss Saver personally conduct small, informal cooking schools in various localities throughout the city.

Miss Saver demonstrated how several sandwich spreads, cookies and cup cakes should be mixed, how various salads are prepared, and how Russian tea is made. She told of the products she preferred and explained how to select foods when buying.

The Scout troop gave prizes which had been donated by local merchants, and not only did the girls of the troop, supervised by Miss Saver, prepare and serve a party, but nearly all the guests were laden with food to take home.

WORKER IS KILLED IN ELEVATOR SHAFT

Was Engaged in Cleaning Job; Found Lying Beside Ladder.

Robert Baldwin, 30, negro laborer, of 71 Hilliard street, N. E., was killed in an accident Sunday afternoon in an elevator shaft in the Grand theater building, according to a report first made public by police yesterday. The negro was engaged with two other laborers in cleaning the shaft and was found on the floor beside a ladder on which he had been working, with a severe head wound, and cuts about the chin and throat. He was taken to Grady hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

Detectors C. L. Taylor and E. I. Hildebrand reported they had interviewed J. H. Edison, manager of the building, who told them he had engaged Baldwin, Gus Moore, of 317 Irwin street, and Ed Parker, all negroes, to clean the elevator shafts in the building. The manager stated that Moore told him Baldwin had finished shaft No. 1 and had asked Moore to take the elevator to the fourth floor.

Moore said he took the elevator up and as he opened the door at the floor level he heard something fall. He investigated and found Baldwin on the floor.

Police surmised that the weights of the elevator must have struck Baldwin on the head and that, from the wounds on his chin and neck, he must have been struck in some manner by the grill work of the elevator.

Moviegoers Find Plentitude Of 'Names' on Week's Bills

Fox Shows 'Drums Along the Mohawk'; Loews, 'Remember'; Paramount, '$1,000 a Touchdown'; Capitol, 'Smashing the Money Ring'; Rialto and Rhodes, Hits.

Big-name stars move in today to take possession of Atlanta screens. Claudette Colbert and Henry Fonda star in the color film of pioneer days, "Drums Along the Mohawk," at the Fox, while Robert Taylor and Lew Ayres in "Remember?" at Loew's.

Martha Raye, she of the big mouth and the pretty legs, stars with Joe E. Brown, also a whole biscuit-eater, in "Smashing the Money Ring," at the Paramount. The Capitol opens for three days with Ronald Regan in "Smashing the Money Ring."

Holdovers are "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" at the Rialto, and "Babes in Arms" at the Rhodes.

"MR. SMITH" CONTINUES ANOTHER WEEK AT RIALTO

"Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" opens its fifth week at the Rialto theater today.

Manager W. T. Murray said, recently, that the popularity of "Mr. Smith" had exceeded even his expectations. He knows, too, what to expect when a new Frank Capra production comes to his theater.

Added to the natural appeal of the marvelously human stories Capra tells on the screen is the interest in this production because of the timeliness of its patriotic appeal and, likewise, because of the resentment expressed by some senators at Washington over the senatorial characterizations in the picture itself. Stars are Jean Arthur and James Stewart. Others in the cast include Claude Rains, Edward Arnold, Eugene Pallette, Astrid Allwyn, Beulah Bondi, Ruth Donnelly, etc.

SECRET SERVICE CASE FORMS FILM PLOT

Ronald Regan, one of the screen's popular action stars, will be seen in the role of a United States secret service agent in "Smashing the Money Ring," which today opens a three-day engagement at the Capitol theater.

The film presents interesting highlights into many of the actual adventures of the men who guard the United States against counterfeiters, as the story of "Smashing the Money Ring" is said to have been taken from a case history in the files of the department.

Regan, as an agent, gets himself sent to prison so that he can get information on a gang of former counterfeiters. As soon as he learns of plans to make more "fake" money he arranges a prison break so that these men can escape and lead him to others of the gang who have never been captured.

PARAMOUNT OFFERS "SMASHING THE MONEY RING"

Moviegoers who have come to expect the ultimate in rib-splitting comedy from Joe E. Brown and many beautiful frontier scenes, as shown vividly in the heartbreak of the pioneers as Indians set fire to their homes and food supplies. Also in the cast is Edna May Oliver.

RHODES RETAINS "BABES IN ARMS"

Song and dance, pathos and drama form the background for the first co-starring appearance of Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Babes in Arms," at the Rhodes theater.

Based on the Broadway musical success of a couple of seasons ago, the story deals with the era when vaudeville passed out of the entertainment picture. When the old-time headliners were up against it their kids came to the rescue, bringing with them a modern viewpoint and a talent that was inborn.

It is a natural structure for a picture which boasts the greatest selection of songs, dance and acting performers since the memorable "Great Ziegfeld." In addition to the stellar Rooney-Garland team, the cast features Charles Winninger, Guy Kibbee, June Preisner, Grace Hayes, Betty Jaynes, Douglas McPhail, Rand Brooks, Leni Lynn, John Sheffield, remembered as "Tarzan Jr." in "Tarzan Finds a Son!" and some 200 supporting players.

"REMEMBER" AT LOEW'S IS GAY ENTERTAINMENT

How to be human though movie married is one of the delightfully whimsical sidelights of the new film "Remember" coming to Loew's today and starring Robert Taylor and Greer Garson with Lew Ayres.

A gay, amusing and turbulent three-sided romance between a trio of young moderns, the picture is notable for its down-to-earthness, for letting the romance laugh at itself as well as with itself.

One of the most amusing of these genuinely human scenes is where Bob and Greer have a quarrel and Bob, just as apt to sulk as the next fellow when he's pushed into a corner, implies that he was practically kidnapped into marrying her. Since their elopement has been one of those fast and furious things, with Bob pursuing her all over the place and involving cab drives and cops in the chase, this burns Greer up. The argument rages back and forth as to just who it was that married whom.

MOORE TO ADDRESS ALABAMA ALUMNIField Secretary Will Speak at Dinner Tonight.

Marlin Moore, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., field secretary of the Alumni Association of the University of Alabama, will be principal speaker at the Atlanta Alabama Alumni Association's annual banquet, to be held at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Piedmont hotel, it was announced by Francis C. Smith, president.

The dinner, an annual event held each year just prior to the Alabama-Georgia Tech football game, is expected to assemble many of the 200 or more Alabama alumni in Atlanta. Melvin F. Schwarz will act as toastmaster. Clyde Davidson is general chairman of the meeting with the following serving under him as committee: Program committee, W. Paul Thomas, Frank C. Gilreath Jr., Bob Shelley and Fred Singlet; arrangements, I. W. Carmack, W. J. Porter, Fred Blount and Mrs. Alice Paget; finance, W. D. Crenshaw, Fred Brown and Lawrence Hobart.

SCHOOL AID SOUGHT BY DEKALB CITIZENSGroup Works for Special Legislative Session; Mass Meeting Tonight.

Seeking an extraordinary session of the state legislature to alleviate the financial pressure on Georgia schools, residents of rural DeKalb county will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in their courthouse to hear resolutions drawn up by a citizens committee.

These will propose: A constitutional amendment for a general sales tax for the exclusive support of the state school system.

That $1,000,000 be set aside from the general fund for the school system to compensate its loss from homestead exemption taxes and to work for the removal of the school tax phase of the homestead exemption.

The special legislative session to appropriate funds for nearly three months in back salaries, totaling $53,000, in DeKalb county.

At tonight's mass meeting, presided over by Dr. H. D. Crowe, of Clarkston, chairman of the committee, citizens will hear an analysis of Georgia finances by Zach Arnold, state auditor. The meeting then will be thrown open to general debate on the resolutions and recommendations.

Superintendent of DeKalb County Schools William Rainey said yesterday that petitions, seeking 10,000 county signatures, are being circulated asking the legislature to convene in extraordinary session to act on the problem.

If the mass meeting tonight approves the citizens committee's proposals, copies will be issued to Governor Rivers and members of the legislature.

Fulton High Pupils Make Ready for Annual Carnival

It's carnival time again at Fulton High school as the boys and girls are busy preparing for their annual festival Friday, when "King and Queen Fulton High" will be crowned. Fuehrer Fritz's Georgia Peach Struts Before U. S. Grand JuryLater Says She Won't Say 'Yes' or 'No' When Asked About Kuhn's Handicap Rating in Race for 'Great Lover' Title.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(UP)—While counsel for Bundesuehrer Fritz Kuhn pondered their client's easy-going bookkeeping methods today to find an answer to state charges of embezzlement, Mrs. Virginia Cogswell, plump Georgia peach and friend of the organization's Fuehrer, appeared before a federal grand jury.

Presumably, the appearance was in connection with federal inquiry into activities of the German-American Bund, but the nine-times-a-bride Mrs. Cogswell wasn't saying.

"I'm so glad to see you boys," she told newspapermen, giving them the merry eye which has won her nine husbands so far, but she refused to indicate the nature of her testimony.

Mrs. Cogswell, national beauty prize winner in 1925, has been mentioned several times during Kuhn's trial on state charges that he stole Bund funds for such purposes as transporting a woman friend's furniture between California and New York and paying a $60 doctor's bill incurred by Mrs. Cogswell.

Reporters, asked Mrs. Cogswell if Kuhn might properly be described as "the great lover," Mrs. Cogswell laughed.

"Let's not go into that," she said.

GEORGIA CPA GROUP TO MEET SATURDAYW. F. Loflin Will Address Accountants at Semi-Annual Session.

Semi-annual convention of the Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants will be held all day Saturday in the Ansley hotel.

Feature of the morning meeting, to begin at 9:30 o'clock, will be an address by W. F. Loflin, of Columbus, on "Recent Developments in Accounting."

The afternoon will be devoted to a discussion of Loflin's paper as well as consideration of "Extensions of Auditing Procedure," a bulletin prepared by the American Institute of Accountants. Discussion leaders will be H. F. Meyer, Savannah; Brooks Geoghegan, Macon, and M. F. Pixton, Atlanta.

Stephen B. Ives, Atlanta, president of the society, will preside. At 8:30 o'clock Friday night, preceding the meeting, the board of trustees of the organization will meet in the Forsyth room of the hotel. Members of the board are M. H. Barnes, Savannah, chairman; W. F. Loflin and S. M. Welborn Jr., Columbus; W. H. Lynch Jr., and Victor Markwalter, Augusta; A. Norris, Macon; M. F. Pixton, C. W. Sebring and T. M. Weber Jr., Atlanta.

'PAUPER'S' CLOTHES YIELD $4,040 CASH

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Nurses preparing the body of Mrs. Anna Meyer, 73, for a "pauper's burial" today found a money belt containing $4,040 strapped around the woman's waist.

Mrs. Meyer died at the Mayview city home where her husband, Jacob Meyer, died five years ago and was buried at the city's expense.

The money belt contained 40 $100 bills and some smaller currency.

MORE CLUES FOUND TO TRAGEDY AT SEA

TITUSVILLE, Fla., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Still more evidence of a disaster at sea was reported here today by several residents who said they found oil drums, electric light bulbs, and half a dozen perfume bottles stamped with the name of a Paris firm at various points along the ocean front in this section.

The coast guard said it was investigating each find, but so far had failed to connect the evidence with the loss of any particular vessel.

WILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 15. (P)—Modern Betty Co-Ed, in contrast to her mother and grandmother, aims at vocational training in selecting her college courses, a study at the Georgia State College for Women showed here today.

Since 1934, there has been an increase of 500 per cent in the number enrolled in secretarial courses leading to degrees. The number in home economics classes has doubled, not only in the conventional "home-making" courses, but in such studies as institutional management, dietetics, and clothing design.

Fewer girls seek B. S. degrees, but more go after degrees in education which indicated to college officials they intended to take up teaching as a career instead of the traditional "stepping stone to marriage."

But nevertheless, a poll of students showed 85 per cent prefer marriage and a home to a career and 90 per cent expect to marry within the next 10 years.

WILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Nov. 15. (P)—Survivors today told of two oil pipeline breaks preceding a disastrous fire which razed the still-supported shanty town of Lagunillas on Lake Maracaibo Monday night.

A revised estimate said tonight that probably less than 100 persons lost their lives in the blaze but no exact list of dead or survivors was available.

Informed quarters said the Venezuelan government would not permit the town to be rebuilt. The flames, fed by a coating of oil on the lake, spread through the town so quickly that few of the oil workers and their families could escape over flimsy wooden catwalks connecting with the mainland.

Rescue workers hunted through floating debris for more bodies today as the Venezuelan government mobilized its forces to aid the survivors.

Two days before the disaster, a pipeline of the Menegrande Oil Company broke, causing the lake waters to rise temporarily to window levels, survivors said. On Monday morning a 12-inch pipe of a Venezuelan oil company broke, spilling considerable oil into the swollen lake.

More than 1,200 houses were destroyed by the blaze. An offshore breeze turned the fire out toward the lake, however, and spared buildings along the shore.

Box Holders Announced for Junior League 'Gone With the Wind' Ball

'Befo' de War' Days Forecast In Plans for Auditorium Event

With the forthcoming premiere of the film version of "Gone With the Wind" focusing national attention upon Atlanta, society is making vast and colorful preparations for the three-day festivities on December 13, 14 and 15, to commemorate the auspicious event. The brilliant Junior League ball on the eve of the premiere, scheduled for December 15, will mark back to the era of splendor and gaiety before the War Between the States, with guests wearing costumes indicative of that period in compliment to Margaret Mitchell, author of the Civil War novel.

The diamond-horseshoe of Grand Opera days will again come to life, with the tiers of boxes in the city auditorium having been reserved in advance by socialites from far and near.

There, they will assemble to meet the scintillating stars of film-dom and to enjoy the spectacular program of festivities planned for the evening. Prominent Atlantans will entertain in compliment to their debutante niece, Miss Nancy Calhoun.

Another box party will be that at which Mr. and Mrs. Norris Broyles will entertain in honor of their aunt, Mrs. E. C. Marshall, of Charlotte, N. C.

Other prominent Atlantans who will act as hosts at box parties include Mrs. Whitman McGonigal, Mrs. Campbell McKenna, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Betty Jones' Debut Date Bears Double Significance For Family

By Sally Forth.

THE debut luncheon of pretty Betty Fitch Jones, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Clifford Jones, scheduled for today at the Billmore hotel, bears double significance for the lovely deb, for this month marks the debut of another of the interesting books written by her maternal grandfather, Dr. William Edward Fitch, M. D., of Burlington, N. C. As well known in medical as in literary circles, Dr. Fitch is a famous historian. His latest book, "The Battle of Alamance," gives an accurate and interesting account of the first battle of the American Revolution.

Betty is an army girl, you know, and it is a coincidence that her grandfather should choose as his subject topics which bear upon the military activities of the "advance guard" of Uncle Sam's great and powerful army. During the World war, Dr. Fitch served with the medical reserve corps.

Dr. Fitch's book opens with a chapter headed "Events Leading to Armed Conflict Are Studied in Light of Their Bearing." It follows with "Research Uncovers Many Interesting Points in History Not Generally Known Today."

A small book, it is nevertheless filled with a great deal of important historical facts of "Young America." The author is well qualified to write upon the subject, for, in addition to his intelligence on these historical matters, the knowledge is his by right of heritage because of his eligibility to membership in many patriotic organizations. These include the Society of Cincinnati; Society of the Founders and Patriots of America, of which he is ex-governor of the New York society; the Society of Colonial Wars; Society of Foreign Wars; Society of Sons of the American Revolution.

SALLY was distressed to learn that one of her favorite debutantes, Anne Suttles, is ill at Crawford W. Long hospital, where she underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis on Tuesday evening.

Of course the lovely blond bud's illness will necessitate her absence from many of the parties accompanying the formal debutante season, but her disappointment is assuaged somewhat by the countless convalescent cards, gifts and flowers sent by her legion of admiring friends.

Anne's debut luncheon, scheduled for November 24 at the Driving Club, has been postponed until the Christmas holidays, when she will be presented to society by her mother, Mrs. J. B. Suttles. The party at which Mrs. W. L. Blackett was to honor the belle on November 21, and that at which Mrs. James Ison was to entertain next Tuesday evening will be postponed, pending Anne's complete recovery.

RADIO fans turning their dials to station WGST for the Carnegie Library Radio Hour at 4 o'clock this afternoon will hear the Junior League radio group's clever characterization of a Thanksgiving play. The story concerns two little girls who become involved in countless difficulties during their efforts to determine whose turkey is the largest. When the trouble is over, the children have learned what it is to be truly thankful, which, of course, is the moral of the story.

Mrs. Curtis Rand, a popular and talented transfer from the Birmingham Junior League, will be the narrator. The former Miss Elizabeth Cornett, Mrs. Rand has enjoyed a great deal of radio experience, and is a valuable addition to the broadcasting group.

Mrs. Berrien Moore Jr. is radio chairman for the year.

PROPOS of the delight Mal O'Brien's relatives and friends are experiencing over her recovery from a recent serious illness, it does not come amiss to write about one of Mal's clever and diplomatic remarks to her attending physicians.

Mal was stricken ill last summer while visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Hasson, at her home in Orlando, Fla. So ill was Mal that she was sent to a hospital in Orlando to fight the dread disease.

When her sister, Mrs. Helen O'Brien Gude, reached her bedside after having been summoned by telegraphic communication, she found Mal under an oxygen tent.

Of course Mrs. Gude was greatly alarmed, but Mal assured her she wasn't very sick, and appealed to her physician to verify her statement. He evaded the question by saying he placed her under the tent as a safeguard measure.

Quick as a flash, Mal responded: "I thought you were just being nice and considerate because you wanted me to keep cool."

Exercises That Keep You Supple Will Also Keep You Slim

While working in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Drums Along the Mohawk," Claudette Colbert for the first time in years, washed clothes and did general housework.

Star Fought Against Role For Which She Won Award

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 15.—Claudette Colbert. . . In dots—and dashes. . . Latest picture—"Drums Along the Mohawk"—during which she scrubbed walls, washed her clothes and did general housework for the first time in years. . . It happened on location, 40 miles from the nearest city. . . The company lived in tents—including the luxury-loving Claudette. . . She was the only one with a bathtub—but it didn't do her much good—the water, from a near-by stream, had to be chlorinated first. . . One evening, Claudette's oil stove exploded. The rest of the company was in town. Claudette had to clean up. When the others returned, she was so angry she couldn't speak.

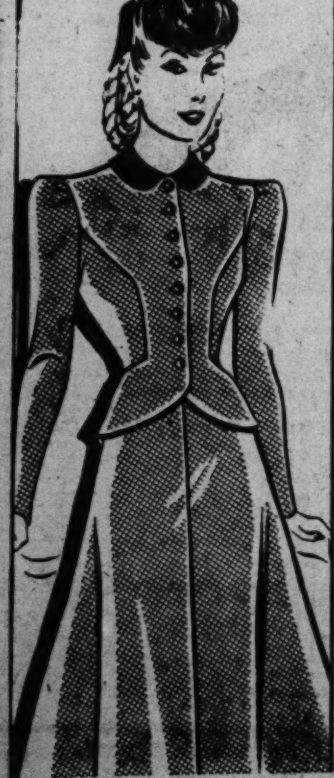

Second husband, Dr. Joel Pressman—whom she calls Jack—was a constant visitor to location. . . They eloped Christmas, 1935, and are still in love with each other—at time of going to press. . . Claudette gives the recipe for her happiness—be together as much as possible. This is a complete switch from the program of marriage No. 1—with Norman Foster—when Claudette used to say that the only way to be happy though married was to live far apart from your husband and see him at brief intervals. She lived on the east coast—New York. Foster, on the west coast—Hollywood. Which is why they finally divorced.

At the moment, Claudette's health is good—this fact is mentioned because it is usually bad—she has suffered for years with sinus trouble—which is how she met her nose-and-throat specialist husband. And three years ago she was injured seriously in an auto accident, which resulted in violent headaches for a year—and the temporary loss of her sense of smell.

Claudette's profile is as important to her as John Barrymore's. Only one side does she allow to be photographed. It takes days of persuasion and arguments to bring

Jacket-Blouse Has Modified Peplum

By Barbara Bell.

Made up in bright wool, velvet or faille in one color or contrast, this gay little two-piece dress (1858-B) is tailored enough to wear in the stadium, and go to tea or cocktail afterwards. And it's smart for business and classroom, too—a perfect example of the softer tailored style that is smartest of the smart! The skirt has plenty of swing and ripple. The jacket-blouse is very small at the waist with a modified peplum that breaks into saucy fullness at the back. It buttons straight up to the throat, and has a beguiling "little boy" collar, extremely becoming to the slim and young. The pattern includes both long and short sleeves. It is easy to make, and a step-by-step sew chart comes with it.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1858-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 2 5/8 yards of 54-inch fabric for long sleeves. With short sleeves, 4 3/8 yards of 36 or 39-inch fabric. 2 1/8 yards to line, 1-2 yard contrasting. Price of pattern, 15c. Price of Pattern Book, 15c. Do not send stamps.

Pantry "Scraps" Make Thrifty, Flavors Soups

By Sally Saver.

As a rule the meal planner doesn't use scraps as often and in as varied manner as is best for the family's nutrition and budget. Almost anything in the pantry or refrigerator can be turned into a delightful soup if you have learned the basic rules of soup making. Too rich cream soups, vegetable soups, meat, fish or chicken soups, soups made with milk, offer unlimited possibilities for getting precious food elements into the diet in a pleasing way, because on a cold day nothing is more acceptable than a bowl of rich, hot soup.

For a thrifty, flavorsome soup, one that is uncommonly good, try this Bean Gumbo.

1 cup white beans
Water to cover
1 cup diced potatoes
1 cup diced carrots
1 cup diced ham (raw or cooked)
1 cup tomato juice
1 small onion, sliced
1 tablespoon green pepper, diced
3 tablespoons butter

Salt and pepper to taste
Soak the beans overnight, drain and cover with cold water or part water and vegetable or meat stock. Sauté the onion, green pepper and ham in the butter, then add to the bean mixture. Simmer all together until the beans are nearly tender. Add the carrots, potatoes and tomatoes during the last half hour of cooking.

Cream Soups.
A good general rule for making cream soups is as follows: 1 pint scalded milk, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 pint cooked vegetable pulp, (made by rubbing cooked vegetables through a coarse strainer). Onions, celery, salt, etc., for seasoning.

Clam Bisque.

Chop soft claims to make 2 cups, or use canned minced clams in same quantity. Put in a saucepan with 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon paprika and 2 drops Worcestershire sauce. Simmer 5 minutes, add 3 cups milk and thicken with 1 tablespoon flour mixed with a little cold water. Let boil up once. Serve in bouillon cups with whipped cream, unsweetened milk, with 2 tablespoons pimento pulp and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Rub canned pimentos through a strainer to make the pulp.

Questions about foods, recipes, quantity cooking or service will be answered by Sally Saver. Write or phone The Constitution or Walnut 6565.

Presence of 150 Honors Proved Bidding Menace

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Some inexperienced bridge players would be far better off if there were no provision for scoring honors held in contract. Too often, the presence of 150 honors in a hand proves a downright bidding menace.

There was that "tricky" World Bridge Olympic hand back in 1933, injected to trap honor-holders. Do you remember it? S-A K Q J 10 9 D-None H-A K 10 C-A K 4 3

Hundreds of Olympic players, caught by the lure of 150 spade honors, bid to a slam in spades only to find West held: S-8 7 6 5 4 3 2 D-A K Q J 10 9 H-None C-None

MISS GRAND SLAMS.
This same hand was a laydown for seven hearts by spade bidder's partner.

Recently in the San Diego, Cal., Union-Tribune bridge school, an honor-struck student insisted on playing a contract at diamonds because she held: S-A K J D-A K J 10 7 6 H-8 C-9 6 5

Her partner opened the bidding one spade, holding: S-Q 10 9 8 6 5 4 D-Q 4 H-None C-A K Q 3

WANTED HONOR-SCORE.
Diamond bidder declined to support the spade bid, she confessed because she feared partner would take the bidding away from her in the higher-ranking suit and she would lose her honors.

The bid stopped ignominiously at five diamonds with 17 tricks in the combined hands. Many players would never think of opening the bidding with one club, sitting south in the following deal:

NORTH
S-6 4
H-A J 10 7 3
D-8 7 6 3
C-Q 7
WEST.
S-8 5 3
H-9 4
D-A K Q J 4
C-A 8
EAST.
S-7 2
H-K Q 8 5
D-10 9 5 2
C-5 4 3
SOUTH
S-A K Q J 10
H-6 2
D-10 9 8 6 5 4
C-K J 10 9 6 2

NEVER MIND HONORS.
Yet, five clubs is a laydown and a game at spades is impossible. The six-card suit should be bid first for South should realize he can not stand to be forced in spades, unless dummy has at least three. Bidding clubs then spades also gives partner a better picture of South's 6-5 distribution. Laugh at honors. 'Til tomorrow . . .

MY DAY Value of Housing Depends on Repairs

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY—It is a most beautiful day and I feel so rested that even a lecture last night in Newark, N. J., and sitting up late to catch up on mail doesn't make the sky one bit grayer. I think it must be my two nights in the country.

I had an interesting time yesterday with Mr. Phillip Hiss, a well-known New York architect and an old friend, who showed me a development which is the result of long time planning and research. It may mean more permanent and better housing for people of very moderate income. I was fascinated by all the details and would have liked to spend many hours with Mr. Hiss to go over all the plans and possibilities.

Two things which appealed to me greatly were the economy of the heating and the air conditioning. The fact that the structure would be fireproof is also a great point in its favor, for one of the things which always worried me about housing developments is the possibility of fire. In addition to that, I have wondered frequently on seeing some of the so-called low income housing, about the life of the building which must of necessity be amortized over a long period, whether it is government-built or built by private enterprise. Houses are valuable to the tenants in exact proportion to the amount of repair bills over the years, and yet we give this item little thought.

As I stepped out of a taxi yesterday afternoon, the taxi-driver in handing me my change, to my complete surprise, said: "God bless you, ma'am!" I wonder whether it was for the tip or whether he really wanted to say something nice about the administration. In any case, it is a happy salutation and I wish we used it more often to each other.

The questions in the Town Hall series last night in Newark, N. J., were very interesting. I understand that Mrs. Parlor O. Griffith, chairman of the Town Hall, is the moving spirit. I should think that she would be very satisfied with the interest shown.

I was told that Mr. Alexander Woolcott was their first speaker and I was a little nervous at following such an expert raconteur. When I discovered that Secretary Ickes and General Hugh S. Johnson are to debate at the next meeting, I felt that the "meat" in this sandwich was not as good as it should have been to live up to the "bread" on either side! I wish I could be in the audience for the coming debate. I am sure it will furnish plenty of fireworks and a good many laughs.

I see today that Holland has been assured that there is no intention of invading her borders and I confess to being glad every time a small country is assured of safety. I feel quite a personal tie with Holland and Belgium because of our ancestors.

I wonder if we will ever return to the day which I can remember, when little was thought of passports. You did not need them to visit most countries. While certain difficulties existed, if you did not know the language or found the exchange of money hard to master, still travel was a very easy thing. Now no one can travel anywhere without a certain risk, and one can certainly not journey for pleasure in many parts of the world.

Better-Than-Average Health Is Main Characteristic of Vite

By Dr. William Brady.

The tongue is red, shiny, more pointed than the tongue of a healthy individual, and feels sore burning. The tongue is often described as "acid fruits" or to other items of diet. Tongue condition is called glossitis.

All muscle tissue (voluntary or skeletal muscle as well as involuntary muscle such as the muscular wall of stomach and intestines) is lacking in tone, functionally weak, easily fatigued. Blood test usually fails to confirm idea of "anemia."

There is a constant feeling of general malaise, that wretched, uneasy feeling which is so pronounced when one is coming down with grip or similar illness.

These are some of the common complaints of people who have nothing in particular the matter but want of vite. As a rule they are not conscious of many of these manifestations, or if they are they are not much concerned, probably because so many people are in the same condition that they consider it normal. For that matter they belong in the third level of health where most of the 75 per cent are content to drift along, assuming that such health as they have is to have a matter of chance or fortune and hence there is no reason for striving to attain the higher grade, the top level, where the 90 per cent are.

The 90 per cent are people who, sometimes through chance or fortune, more often through study and consistent effort of their own, have vite.

Vite is a word coined by our readers to express the following: Preservation of the characteristics of youth, better-than-average nutritional condition as manifested in lower death-rates, better growth and development, extension of the prime of life in both directions, material improvement of the life expectation of adults, higher average level of positive health throughout the life cycle.

Last June I wrote for advice about head noises. In the pamphlet on deafness and headaches you recommended vitamin B-complex tablets. Have been taking them every day for nearly four months, also your Iodin Ration.

I find I am cured of these head-noises. My blood pressure, formerly very low, is now up to normal, my doctor says. I am greatly improved physically and I feel grateful to you. Knowing your collection I am sending you a pipe which I hope you will enjoy. (L. A. E.)

Answer—Thank you. If the pipe ever gets to me—you never can tell. Once a fruit importer sent me a bunch of bananas, and months afterward the boys in the office assured me they were the best bananas they had ever eaten. Once a reader drove 40 miles to bring me some fresh goat's milk—that, too, seemed all right to the boys who so willingly expose themselves to such hazards in my defense. I am glad to send the monograph on Deafness and Head Noises (tinnitus) to any reader on request (no clipping, please). Enclose a stamped envelope bearing your address.

Woman's Quiz

Q. Should a child under six be given an egg every day?

A. Eggs are rich in iron, protein, and vitamins. A fresh egg should be given to a child every day, soft-boiled or hard-boiled, poached, or scrambled, or used in custard or other foods. A child under two should have poached or soft-boiled eggs. Occasionally a child cannot eat eggs because he is sensitive to the protein contents. Such a child may vomit repeatedly, or after eating only a small amount of egg, or he may break out with hives. The child should not be given egg again until a doctor has been consulted. It should be remembered that in cooking eggs the water should always be below the boiling point.

Avoid Criticism, Is Advice Given Timid Girl

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I'm bringing you my problem which may seem small but it is a very serious problem to me. I'm 20 years old and want to have fun but I can't find it. I'm lonely in a crowd and lonely when alone. I want to laugh and be sociable but when I try to laugh my face freezes and no words will form. I've been in crowds and had that left out feeling, wishing I were at home and then when I get home I'm still unhappy.

I wish I could gain self-confidence, make friends and keep them. But it seems that when I get a star, I try to get the whole sky and lose what I had. I'll be honest and admit that I have a terrible habit of seeing everybody's worst points. I have many of my own that need correcting and maybe this is why I see others' faults so plainly. Anyhow, I'm tired of being unhappy, alone, lonely. I want out of myself. ETHEL.

Answer: Well, Ethel, what you need is some interests outside yourself, a determination to learn something from people—and books that will give you food for thought and conversation and a few good friends. This isn't begging the question either, though of course you must train yourself to take hold of these things or they will continue to elude you.

The hardest job we have to do in this life is making our minds behave. A child growing up in a home where he is never required to do anything and never forbidden to do anything becomes unruly and wild, a nuisance to himself and everybody around him. This is exactly what happens to an undisciplined mind: it runs riot and causes no end of embarrassment to the person that lives with it.

If we don't use our brains to acquire useful knowledge and put into every day practice what we've learned, we are doomed to be lonely and unhappy; because the empty head is a culture tube for depression, boredom, dissatisfaction with life in general; unappetizing dishes with which to bait people.

It's out of the question to turn acquaintances into friends when we are slouching on their shortcomings. People will not go for us when we are going after their faults. They will not open their minds or hearts to us when we are turning on them the merciless light of criticism. They will not consider us worthwhile unless we make them feel that we consider them worthwhile.

How to do it? Why give them compliments instead of criticism. We needn't be clever to make friends but we must be kindly. We needn't be learned to make people love us, but we must be lenient. You may put your money on it: nothing destroys self-consciousness and builds self-confidence so surely as the consciousness that we've made the grade with the people around us. CAROLINE CHATFIELD. (To Be Continued.)

Public Speaker Varies Pitch, Tone of Voice

What a difference there seems between the speaker and you—if you're accustomed to be just "one of the audience." You can't imagine yourself talking with ease and charm before so many people!

Actually the gap is small! Public speaking can be studied at home—and for even the most brilliant occasions the rules of procedure are simple.

Suppose you are introducing the guest speaker at a gala dinner of your club. Correct procedure is to begin "Ladies and gentlemen." Then you give the reason for the meeting (the club's tenth birthday perhaps) and next state the speaker's background, the subject of his talk, his name. You can cover the points in four sentences and you do—for good introductions are brief!

Remember, too, to look straight at the audience, turning to the speaker only at the last, when you say with a welcoming smile, "I now present—Mr. Jones."

Even long talks need not frighten you if you know methods used by professional speakers to hold interest.

Vary the speed with which you speak—and vary tone and pitch, but don't trail off at the end of a sentence. Shall you use gestures? Do so if natural to you. A clear and colorful voice, a good platform manner, a knowledge of parliamentary rules—these, too, help you win points of honor in social or business groups, parent or civic clubs. Our 40-page booklet, "Self-Instruction in Public Speaking," tells how to develop the voice, acquire poise, prepare and deliver effective speeches. Gives parliamentary forms, many sample speeches for different occasions, also pointers for radio speaking.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, SELF INSTRUCTION IN PUBLIC SPEAKING, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

No middle-aged figure for Joan Blondell. When the weather won't permit outdoor recreation, she does a few calisthenics.

Creaking Joints, Middle-Aged Figures Usually Go Together

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you will cudgel your memory you may recall that time when you could do "the split." Holding the legs perfectly straight and diametrically opposed, you could sink smack down on the floor until you were seated.

And yet, today when see a dancer doing the same thing with a bit more flourish you're apt to say, "Hmmm! Double-jointed!" Melissa Mason, versatile eccentric dancer, has come to the conclusion that "anybody whose joints creak believes that anybody else is double-jointed!"

But the sad part of it is, says Miss Mason, that no woman ever need grow stiff. She ought to know! "For a dancer, stiffness would mean the end of a career. But for the average woman it's pretty bad, too . . . it means the finish of her figure," she declares.

Because what keeps you supple will also keep you slim, Miss Mason recommends three exercises daily to keep you from succumbing to creaking joints and an oldish figure. The first is for your waistline and should be performed with a dancer's practice rail—but a high-backed chair will do nicely.

Position: Stand with the left hand placed on the back of a chair for support.

Movement: Pull up with the lower abdominal muscles, bend over and touch the right hand to the floor in front of the body.

Position: Stand with the hands together and straight out in front of the body.

Movement: Swing both arms backward, trying to clap hands together in back, 50 times.

Other hip-slimming exercises are contained in the "Business Girls' Daily Half-Dosen," for which you may send. Please enclose a stamped return envelope to Miss Kain, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Skirt Slants Up Front in Two Panels

By Lillian Mae.

When you hear your angel-child described as "best dressed child" of the very young set, how proud you'll be to have made every stitch yourself! Lillian Mae's Pattern 4307 is bound to win compliments, and it's almost as quick to make as saying "Jack Robinson." The jauntily flared, eight-gored skirt slants right up the bodice front in two novel panels. You might make the rest of the bodice and the sleeves in spirited contrast. There's a small, round collar or a pretty square neck. Take your choice of three sleeve styles; short puffs, long bishop sleeves and tiny flares.

Pattern 4307 is available in children's sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6, short sleeve version, takes 1 5/8 yards 36-inch fabric and 5-8 yard contrast; long sleeve version, 2 3/8 yards 36-inch fabric.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number. "Can I afford to be in style?" With New Year gaudies almost here, you can't afford not to be! Lillian Mae's winter Pattern Book comes to your aid. There are vivid frocks for day and night festivities, as well as timely gift tips and winter vacation wearables. Book 15 cents.

Send your order to Lillian Mae Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Sons and Daughters Of Georgia Pilgrims Hold Recent Meeting

At the state meeting of Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims held recently, Mrs. S. M. Page Rees, state governor, presided during the first part and when called away, the chair was taken by Mrs. James H. Downey, of Gainesville, deputy governor.

Mrs. Regina Rambo Benson offered prayer and the pledge of allegiance to the flag and the creed was led by Miss Alberta Malone. Mrs. Rees introduced Judge Augustus M. Roan as curator and custodian who will fill the unexpired term of Mrs. A. Homer Carmichael, who resigned because of serious illness in her family.

The state registrar, Howard M. Askew, reported that the society is making satisfactory progress. It was voted that the gold medal presented to the student in the naval R. O. T. C. of Georgia Tech making the highest standing in naval science and tactics, during the basic course in that subject, shall be awarded this year, the presentation to take place at Grant field on Honor Day in May. This medal was won during the past scholastic year by Cadet Edgar T. Fowler.

Mrs. Rees stated the marker to be erected by Georgia Branch of Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims, on the old Federal Post Road near Talking Rock, is being cast. The marker will commemorate the Cisca-St. Augustine Indian Trail over which the Indian tribes journeyed to the seacoast to obtain shells for wampum. Dedication exercises and unveiling takes place in the early part of 1940.

Miss Ella May Thornton, state librarian of Georgia, invited to speak at the state meeting and discuss Georgia's historical material and other data available in the state library, was unavoidably detained. A talk on the Virginia Dare stones recently discovered and in possession of Brenau College was substituted.

It was voted that members visit Brenau College at Gainesville on November 26. Judge John D. Humphries is chairman of arrangements and any member desiring to join the party making this trip may call Judge Humphries at VE. 3676. Mrs. James H. Downey will make arrangements for visiting the college and the talk by Dr. H. J. Pearce on the stones and their discovery will engage interest.

Miss Mary Bryan Honored at Parties.

Miss Mary Bryan, whose marriage to William Noble Benedict will be an important social event of December 9, was honor guest Tuesday at two lovely parties.

The first of these was the luncheon at which Miss Rollie Adair was hostess at her home on Peachtree road.

The table was centered with a large silver bowl filled with radiance roses. Marking the guests' places were silver love bird cards and the bride-elect's place was marked with a miniature hand-painted bride.

In the afternoon, Miss Bryan shared honors with another popular bride-elect, Miss Cornelia Walther, at the tea given by Miss Jane McMillan at the home of her sister, Mrs. Roy Jones, on Peachtree way. Miss Whitner's marriage to James LeRoy Campbell Jr., will be an important event of Saturday.

Presiding at the tea table were the honor guests' sisters, Miss Lydia Whitner and Mrs. Bonneau Ansley. Mrs. Jones assisted her sister in entertaining.

The table was centered with a crystal bowl filled with pastel autumn flowers and flanked by crystal candelabra holding lighted white tapers.

Georgia Products Luncheon Planned.

The Civic Club of West End will sponsor a Georgia products luncheon at the clubhouse, 1115 Gordon street, today from 12 to 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. W. J. Henry is general chairman and Mrs. A. H. Cochran co-chairman.

Mrs. G. H. Howard is chairman of the kitchen committee, with Mesdames L. A. Hollingsworth, Asa Dwight, P. D. Johnson, Carl Raper, Otis Witherspoon as assistants. The dining room committee includes Mrs. P. G. Saxton, chairman; Mesdames J. H. Savage, J. H. Cogbill, Karl Markt, C. C. Guinn and R. J. Young.

Serving committee chairman is Mrs. A. P. Bradley, with Mesdames B. L. Elrod, Eldridge Turner Jr., T. A. Slaught, W. F. Converse, L. Z. Fleming, Joel Moore, J. K. Ezell and C. C. Chamberlain assisting.

The Georgia products luncheon is an annual affair at the Civic Club, and the public is invited. Those desiring to play bridge in the afternoon are invited to do so.

Gardeners Forum Changes Its Name.

The Gardeners' Forum met recently with Mrs. McCord Shaver on Clifton road, with Mrs. G. L. Hutcheson and Mrs. Fred Mason as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Hal Lindsey, program chairman, presented Miss Lennie de Jarnette and Mr. Evans, of the United States Forest Service, who spoke.

The club voted to change its name to Emorydales Garden Club. Luncheon was enjoyed.

Miss McConnell and Lt. Woodward Wed at Full Military Ceremony

MRS. WALDEN FRANCIS WOODWARD.

Lieutenant Walden Francis Woodward and Mrs. Woodward left the Druid Hills Baptist church yesterday afternoon under an arch of banners following their marriage at 5:30 o'clock. The lovely bride is the former Miss Betty McConnell, daughter of Mrs. S. C. McConnell and the late Mr. McConnell.

Dr. Louie D. Newton performed the marriage service before an assemblage of fashionable Atlanta society. Mrs. James Reeves, soloist, and Mrs. John Felder, organist, presented a program of music prior to and during the ceremony.

The altar of the church was banked with a profusion of palms and trees of Woodwardia ferns interspersed with 19-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers, and seven-branched candelabra with lighted tapers. Graceful baskets of yellow chrysanthemums and tall urns of yellow flowers completed the artistic decorations.

The pews reserved for members of the families and out-of-town guests were marked with clusters of yellow chrysanthemums, tied with yellow satin ribbons.

Wedding Personnel.

Mrs. Evan McConnell, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor and Miss Mary Virginia McConnell was maid-of-honor. They were gowning in blue satin designed like those worn by the other attendants. They wore matching gold hats and carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums and lavender sweetpeas.

The dainty little flower girls were Pearson, Henry and Lynn Meredith. They were gowning in ivory net frocks designed with tight bodices which featured sweetheart necklines and short puffed sleeves. They wore matching net bonnets and carried colonial bouquets of pastel colored flowers.

The bridesmaids included Captain Joseph H. Harper, Lieutenant Dick Hill, Lieutenant Wallace Brucker, Lieutenant H. W. McClelland, all of Ft. McPherson, and Lieutenants Thomas McCrory, Raymond Hill and David S. Dillard, of Fort McChellan.

The ushers were Dr. Cosby Swanson, Remington McConnell, Emmett Barlow, Walker Benson, William Davis, of Anniston, Ala.; Andrew Ramsey, of Birmingham, Ala., and Forrest and Carroll McConnell, of Montgomery, Ala.

Bride Wears Ivory Satin.

The radiant bride entered with her brother, Wellington McConnell, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Lieutenant Elliot Ursin, of Fort McChellan. The lovely bride was gowning in an exquisite model of Duchess ivory satin designed Princess style. The bodice featured a sweetheart neckline outlined in rose point lace, and leg-of-mutton sleeves finished with points over the hands. The full graceful skirt cascaded into a peacock train. Her Alencon lace veil posed over illusion tulle was caught to her hair by a halo of Alencon lace. Her only ornament was a string of pearls and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

Following the ceremony Mrs. McConnell entertained at an elaborate reception at her home on Springdale road honoring members of the wedding party, out-of-town guests and relatives of the bridal couple.

Mrs. McConnell received her guests wearing a gown of peacock blue velvet embroidered in silver. A matching blue hat trimmed in ostrich feathers and a shoulder bouquet of purple orchids completed her costume. Mrs. Walter

Miss Fitzpatrick, Mr. O'Callaghan Will Wed Dec. 19

Miss Kathryn Fitzpatrick, of Austell and Atlanta, and her fiancé, William Lawrence O'Callaghan, of Atlanta, have completed plans for their marriage, the wedding to take place Tuesday, December 19, at 5:30 o'clock at the Central Presbyterian church. Dr. Stuart R. O'Giesby, church pastor, will officiate.

Miss Fitzpatrick will be given in marriage by her father, Wesley Harris Fitzpatrick, of Austell, and James O'Callaghan, brother of the groom-elect, will be best man.

The bride-elect's sister, Mrs. Claude C. Burgen, will be her matron of honor, and another sister, Miss Aline Fitzpatrick, and Miss Katherine O'Callaghan, sister of the groom-elect, will be bridesmaids.

Ushers will be Julius Lennard, Lewis Riden, Roy Fricks and Charles Montgomery.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick, parents of the bride-elect, will entertain at a reception at their home in Austell.

Prior to the nuptials Miss Fitzpatrick is being widely feted at social affairs.

Miss Betty Fuller will be hostess at a luncheon Saturday at her home on Frederica avenue, a group of the bride-elect's close friends to be guests for this affair.

Three parties are planned for November 25, the first of these being a luncheon at 1:30 o'clock at which Miss Martha Callaway will be hostess at a breakfast on Williams Mill road. At 4 o'clock, Mrs. Homer A. Davis and Mrs. Harry Gunnin will entertain at a tea at the home of the former on Oxford road honoring Miss Fitzpatrick, and at 6 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Hills will be hosts at a steak fry at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Dunn, on Briarcliff road, complimenting the bride-elect and her fiancé.

Sunday morning, November 26, Misses Karen Krupp, Gwendolyn Hoffman and Virginia Hill will entertain at a breakfast for Miss Fitzpatrick, and on December 9 Misses Evelyn McCain and Dorothy Jean Pope will be hostesses at a luncheon for the bride-elect.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lowe have selected December 10 as the date of their wedding. They will honor Miss Fitzpatrick and Mr. O'Callaghan.

Miss Fitzpatrick will entertain December 16 at a luncheon for her bridesmaids, and December 18, following the wedding rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. William J. O'Callaghan, parents of the groom-elect, will be hosts at a buffet supper at their home on Williams Mill road, for members of the Fitzpatrick-O'Callaghan wedding personnel and the two families.

Kle Club Benefit.

The Kle Club will sponsor a benefit bridge at the Southern Dairies on Glen Iris drive Friday. All proceeds will be devoted to the charity work of the club. Members and friends of the Kle Club are invited to make reservations with Mrs. Charles W. Underdonk, HE. 9752M. The game will start at 2 o'clock and refreshments will be served. Many beautiful prizes will be given. Players are requested to bring cards and pencils.

Mrs. Robert Carpenter was hostess at her home in the Imperial hotel recently to the members of the Kle Club at the annual luncheon. The dolls were given out to be dressed for the Christmas doll charity work. Mrs. Mary Pickford Rogers presented three dolls to the women on the committee.

Regarding the Future When Bucher Scott Becomes 'Butcher' Guard

The picture on the Chattanooga sports page showing this young man crouched in charging position was headed, "All-City Candidate."

Beneath, there was the name, "Bucher Scott, McCallie." The accompanying story did not explain everything, but it serves the purpose:

"Football comes natural to Bucher Scott, scrappy McCallie guard, as he is the stepson of Coach Bill Alexander, of Georgia Tech."

"But Scott had little experience on the gridiron when he reported as a candidate for guard at McCallie early this fall, and his only previous playing was as a reserve on Boys' High in Atlanta."

"Yet Bucher has come through in fine style, despite the poor record of McCallie this year. Although not as big as most guards, Scott has held down his post well and played good defensive ball. He is fast, also, which gives him a better chance to block his heavier opponents on offense."

"There are few stars in McCallie's blue heaven this year, but when selecting the best players in town, it would be advisable not to overlook the Blues' scrappy little guard, Bucher Scott."

Football hardly comes natural to Bucher—pronounced "Booker"—despite his being Coach Alex's stepson. Bucher likes the game, however, and is making up with speed and spirit what he undoubtedly lacks in size. Bucher is only 17 now and will grow more.

He probably will spend another year at McCallie. And along about 1941, the Tech freshman squad is expected to list "Scott, Bucher, guard." The writers promptly will add a "t" to his first name.

He will become "Butcher" Scott and before his career is over he may take his place beside all the small guards who have made history at Tech—boys like the Wilcox brothers and J. L. Brooks.

A boy doesn't necessarily have to be a giant to be a fine football player at Georgia Tech. They'll take a small boy with speed, smartness and heart any day and make a real performer out of him.

That comes under the heading of great coaching.

"SO HELP ME."

For nigh on to 20 years now, George Griffin has been picking his spots and telling the same story about a football incident that allegedly happened once at Tech.

The only trouble about the story is that nobody will believe it. No writer, in 20 years, has had the heart to print it.

However, something has got to be done about Griffin telling the story. This reporter has just heard it again for the 25th time. And maybe if it gets into print, Griffin will be satisfied and get himself a new story.

It seems that on the old field now occupied by the gymnasium and the armory, a Tech reserve team was playing an outside opponent and the Jackets had a boy playing fullback who recently had been shifted from center.

Not knowing whether the Griffin story contains more than three words of truth, one wouldn't dare mention the boy's name. You see, they have started writing letters to the editors out at the Flats and one of the letters might be accompanied by high explosive.

At any rate, to hear Griffin tell it, "they called this ex-center's signal. The snap was perfect. But when he caught the ball he seemed to be dumfounded. He stood there momentarily and then bent over, placed the ball on the ground and snapped it back between his legs."

"Well, sir, the ball rolled on back over the Tech team's goal line and was recovered for a touchdown by the opponents. It was the score that beat us."

Usually, after Griffin finishes and his audience stands

Jackets Must Play Inexperienced Backs

Subs for Bosch Ailing; Situation Acute As Most Useful Back Is Lost.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Tech's hopes of defeating Alabama Saturday and going on to tie for the Southeastern conference championship were severely jolted yesterday when Alternate Captain Billy Gibson, one of the squad's most valuable men, suffered a knee injury in scrimmage and won't be able to play against the Tide.

The injury occurred in the very last stages of what would have been the Jackets' most successful scrimmage of the season. Gibson carried the ball and received the injury as he was tackled.

Gibson was the most valuable man the Techs could have lost. A star at wingback all season, he was slated for double-duty the remainder of the year, relieving Johnny Bosch at tailback when necessary. He is one of the most valuable defensive backs on the squad.

INEXPERIENCED. His loss leaves the Jackets in a rather bad spot for backs. Sophomore Bobby Pair, a great runner but inexperienced defensively; Veteran Earl Wheby and Jack Nettles, up from the Red Devils, will have to handle the work at wingback.

Then, too, there is an acute lack of subs for Bosch. Bobby Beers has two hurt knees and can't be counted on for much work. Cowboy Buck Shaw also has a bad knee which may be reinjured at any moment. Dick Bates will be moved up from the Red Devils but is inexperienced.

Just who will replace Gibson in the starting lineup against Alabama remains uncertain but most observers are willing to give the nod to Pair, who ran so well against Kentucky last Saturday. Both Wheby and Nettles are likely to see plenty of service, however.

SCRIMMAGE.

Gibson's injury threw a wet towel on the whole scrimmage in which the Jacket first-stringers looked better than they have all season. The line, led by the hard charges and tackles of Butch Aderholt and Hawk Cavette, smeared Red-shirt backs using Alabama's attack. Buck Murphy also did a great job at backing up the line while other men performed almost equally as well.

It was Johnny Bosch who star-

Annual Home-Coming Fray Set at 2 O'Clock Saturday.

Oglethorpe's strongest possible lineup with not a single player on the injured list is ready to face Stetson College at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Hernance field in the annual home-coming game.

Coach Patrick sent his charges through the roughest scrimmage of the week Wednesday afternoon, and was all smiles when the players checked into the dressing room, full of pep and fight and not an injury worth mentioning.

After scouting Stetson last week, Coach Patrick figures his team has an equal chance to win Saturday with the odds, if any, favoring the visitors.

Oglethorpe hasn't lost a home-coming game in 14 years, and every effort will be made Saturday to preserve that record, but

LaSalle-Dell Battle Ruled Draw by White

City Commission Chairman Cites Rules in Reversing Decision; Rematch Suggested.

By THAD HOLT.

According to John A. White, chairman of the city boxing commission, the Kenny LaSalle torture of Carl Dell at Sports Arena Tuesday night, which Mr. White did not see, stands officially as a draw. It was first announced as a draw from the ring, but examination of the referee's and two judges' ballots disclosed that one of the judges and Referee Tommy McCarthy ruled it an even contest and the other judge voted for LaSalle. Then it was announced, after perusal of a boxing rule book, that LaSalle had won a split decision.

Of course Mr. White didn't have to present to take action. He needed only the facts to effect a reversal of the decision. He explained that the city boxing rules plainly stipulate that two draws against one decision make it a draw. And, so, as far as Atlanta is concerned, the fight stands as a draw.

No one will be mad about the decision being called a draw, unless it be LaSalle, who got the biggest shock of his successful fight career. However, the cagey Frenchman has been around for a good spell and he is used to taking the bitter with the sweet.

This correspondent has his own opinion about the matter. It is simply this: If Ben Brown had been punched around and outclassed as was Carl Dell; if Ben was so bloody his own mother wouldn't have known him; if Ben had been able to land fewer solid punches than you can count on the fingers of one hand, and yet had been accorded a draw, fans of this town would have risen up in all their wrath to such an extent there might have been a riot. Why, when they gave Brown a decision over Teddy Yaross after a close fight in which neither man was hurt, one might have thought Ben was General Sherman's first lieutenant. Three weeks later Yaross won only one round on Jack Dempsey's score sheet, that one because of low blows.

And another thing: Betcha if Tuesday's fight had been staged in Dell's home town (New York) the Italian wouldn't have been given more than three rounds. Because up there boxing skill counts for something. Bull-like tactics such as Dell repeatedly employed in rushing and wrestling LaSalle into the ropes draw little favor. A man must land some punches to win.

The boxing books definitely decide how a fight shall be judged, pointing out that while aggressiveness counts for a man, missed punches are marked up against him.

Most importantly, the boxing books say that when a bout is even, as regards rounds, it is permissible, even advisable to give the decision to the man who has been the most effective puncher, and has inflicted the most punishment (that would be LaSalle) and who finishes the fight in the best physical condition (that also would be LaSalle).

Young Dell is a whale of a fighter, however. He was dangerous every minute. Why not rematch them, Mr. Promoter? Make it 12 rounds next time.

In the Solomon-like words of the manager—"they can't hurt us."

MERCER, HOWARD CLASH TONIGHT

$50,000 Albany Stadium Is Site; Bears Rule as Favorites.

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 15.—(P)—Mercer University's Bears and Howard College's football teams will clash here tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the $50,000 Albany stadium. The game is sponsored by the Albany Lions Club for the benefit of its blind fund.

This is the second college football game ever seen in Albany and south Georgia, the first having been the Mercer-Oglethorpe game in the bowl in 1936, when 6,000 fans, a capacity crowd, witnessed the opening of the sunken garden.

Both Mercer and Howard teams arrived here today and both worked out in the stadium tonight.

GOOD NEWS.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—(P) Refusal of Texas A. & M. to consider playing in the Dallas Cotton Bowl even if invited caused unexpressed elation tonight among persons connected with New Orleans' Sugar Bowl.

Men in 12 States, 46 Cities Report They SAVE UP TO $1.48 A QUART on Old Quaker Whiskey—Now 4 Years Old!

From Coast to Coast, Former Users of "Expensive" Whiskies Are Switching to Rich, Mellow Old Quaker! Why? They've Learned How to Buy Fine Whiskey, and Save Money Doing It!

● If you're a man who wants to save money and get fine whiskey too—here's some news.

Smart men who used to pay up to $1.48 more a quart for "expensive" brands, have learned how to buy a rich, delicious whiskey and save money doing it.

We wanted to know how this came about. Were these men buying Old Quaker just to save money? Or did Old Quaker's rich taste appeal to them still more? So trained investigators visited 12 states, 46 cities and asked:

Read These Typical Statements: "What," said Milo Fender, Keithsburg, Ill., "me pay over $5.00 a quart for whiskey, again? Not me, since I found Old Quaker saves me $1.30 or more on every quart, and is every bit as good."

"No more high-priced whiskies for me," says Frank H. Scott of St. Louis, Mo. "Old Quaker tastes as good, if not better. That's a saving of $1.85 a bottle."

Try It Yourself

Take a tip from these men's statements. Every drop of this rich whiskey is now full 4 years old and finer than ever—yet price is still economical. Try Old Quaker for yourself, and see how it can save you money on every bottle you buy.

"I used to drink high-priced whiskey," says John H. Vogel of Milwaukee, Wis. "Old Quaker saves me $1.37 on every bottle!"

NUTRITION HABITS OF CITY FAMILIES ARE BEING STUDIED

Survey Is Made Through Atlanta Schools by Means of Records Pupils Are Filling Out

A survey of the nutrition habits of Atlanta families is being made through the Atlanta public school system by means of daily records which pupils are to fill out.

Purpose of the records are twofold. The primary object is to educate the family, through its members in school, in the principles of nutrition. In addition, after the records are completed, the sponsoring committee plans to arrange a budget for a healthful minimum diet for recommendation to relief agencies.

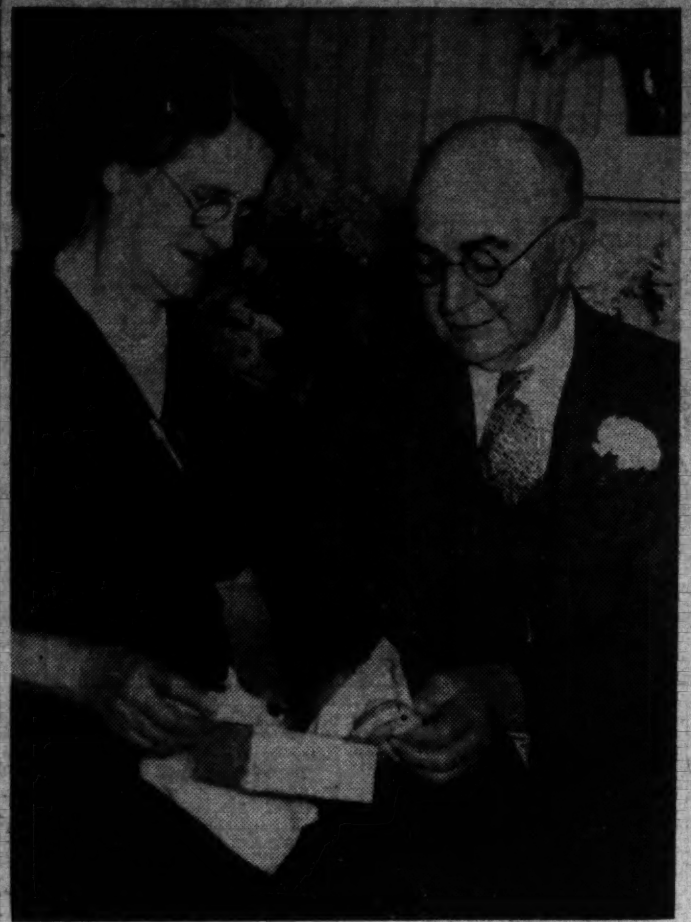

Similar work in nutrition education also is being carried on by the WPA household aid project. Sponsored jointly by the city health department, the city schools and the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, the program is being carried out because it is felt that many cases requiring medical attention can be avoided if patients are properly nourished.

Spend 42 of Their 52 Years Together Here

Golden wedding bells chimed last night for Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hunter who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at their home on Columbia avenue, Decatur. The couple has lived here for the last 42 years.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Celebrated by Decatur Couple

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hunter's 50 Years of Married Life Is Occasion for Children and Friends To Offer Congratulations.

Fifty years of married life were celebrated last night when the family and friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hunter gathered at the Hunter home on Columbia avenue in Decatur to observe the couple's golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter are prominent in civic, religious and cultural circles, and are descendants of pioneer southern families. Mrs. Hunter is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn R. W. Key, of Alabama, and was born April 5, 1871. The Hunter family hails from Dadeville, Chambers county, Alabama.

Hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Hunter's children, including Mrs. Andrew Fite, Dr. Conway Hunter, Mrs. Raymond Rasbury, Allen Hunter, Jack Hunter and Eloise Hunter. The celebrants have four grandchildren, Dorothy Ann Hunter, Conway Hunter Jr., Patricia Hunter and Douglas Hunter.

Assisting at the reception last night were Mrs. John Harper, Mrs. Conway Hunter, Mrs. Allen Hunter, Mrs. Jack Hunter and Dorothy Ann Hunter, Billy Lovelady, Lola Swords and Helen Harmon.

A jury in Fulton superior court virtually set a record in bringing in a verdict yesterday in the case of Thomas B. Woodall Jr., indicted for voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death September 14 of J. F. Hancey. Woodall was accused of striking Hancey over the head with a billiard cue. He was found not guilty in less than three minutes. The defense brought out that Hancey was drinking and quarreling in a pool hall and tried to interfere with Woodall's game. He struck Woodall first with a cue stick, it was said.

The majority of petit jurors are not related to county employees, it would appear from the record in choosing a jury yesterday for the trial of Homer Gullitt, indicted county tax assessor.
